

As soon I walked into lecture, I was introduced to the class expectations Muhammad has for us as adults one of them which I can recall was in the classroom the default language is English. To succussed he introduced us to the 5 pillars of Succes as listed below

- Attend lectures
- Take notes
- ask questions
- Listen
- Submit a draft

I felt normal due to me learning these in sixth form and most of these are expected in life when going for job interview/life skills to be able to ask questions is a basic life skill in any industry of work.

I learned what networking is what a personal brand can offer how adaptability works in business/the market of entrepreneurs I gotten a better understanding of how leadership skills effect business and how it will affect your chance of success of getting a job/promotion. What I could do to improve these is doing my research and trying to use these skills in life as well by trying to network with other likeminded individuals not just in person but also in group chat and by social media your network is your net worth quote by Porter Gale.

As I learned my network is my net worth I have consider to start joining online groups which people are making online money such as dropping smma crypto trading such groups which provide vale in exchange for money and time as I will have to learn the basics to become an expert later on in the industry of whatever I chose to pursue. To do that I will have to gain more knowledge and understanding which market I will do best in depends how much effort I put into learning the skill. I learned my note taking and my ability to put my ideas into paper been a problem to improve this I will take my time when doing notes and to think before I write something down.
