Module Learning Outcomes (from module syllabus)

- Critically discuss the concepts of behind, sources and problems related to Big Data
 - Design, build and professionally document a small data warehouse suitable for use with Big Data
 - Perform Data Analysis and reporting on complex data within a Big Data warehouse
- Demonstrate a creative use of appropriate data mining and data visualisation techniques within a Big Data context.

TASK DESCRIPTION

This assignment requires the submission of one assignment broken down into two tasks:

Task 1- The analysis of Pestron data (given in class) to create a small data warehouse and Big Data Model Task 2- A report on the challenges of utilizing Big Data in smaller organisations.

Pestron Foods is a mini-supermarket chain that also grows its own produce and does sell consumer focused electronic products to its growing customer base. They do import and export some products to a few selected markets in Europe and the Americas. To this effect, they are inundated with data and is in need of your expert assistance.

You have been asked to appraise Pestron Foods by its Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and to deliver a report that demonstrates the viability of using Big Data approaches for aiding the decision making process of the company.

a) Initially you will need to define the role of Big Data in small firms and to highlight the data collection process required for better understanding the types of data held by Pestron Foods.

b) Discuss the various forms of data that the company needs to evaluate.

c) Appraise the tools and technologies available to the company then offer valid recommendations for implementation.

d) Highlight weaknesses if any found in tools and or technologies listed in c.

e) Create a Big data model based on Pestron data.

f) Create a small data warehouse to store data provided on behalf of Pestron Foods.

g) Add an overall conclusion to your report that summaries your analysis of Pestron Foods

Use screenshots to aid concepts discussed throughout.

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

You are required to submit one document that consists of a formal report, the creation of a Big data model and a small data warehouse that applies to the company. It is important that all ideas and concepts listed are current and as such reflect best practices in the area of Big data mining.

The assignment that you will submit should not exceed the suggested 5000 words (+/- 10 percent). This word count is based on the culmination of both halves of the assignment which will require explanations per included screenshot.

You will need to create a list of contents that ensures that the following are listed in your report:

Abstract- Please note in this section you are required to summarise the submitted assignment.

Introduction

Literature Review – Please note in this section you are expected to demonstrate an understanding of Big data and to support your interpretations of literary sources in order to ensure that the CEO of Pestron is able to understand the manner in which it could aid the given case company.

Methods – Please note in this section you are expected to list the steps taken to analyse the given dataset, the creation of a data warehouse and Big data Model.

Results – Please note in this section you are expected to list screenshots of your created model and data warehouse with supporting information per screenshot.

Conclusions

References – The IEEE referencing convention must be used for this assignment. No other reference format is allowed.

Appendices

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set; you should make use of scholarly reviews and primary sources, where appropriate (for example, refereed research articles and/or original materials appropriate to the discipline). You should provide evidence that you have accessed a wide range of sources, which may be academic, governmental and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Your portfolio should include reference to at least 10 such sources and the referencing standard for you course applied throughout.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 6, you should be able to demonstrate coherent and detailed knowledge and a systematic understanding of the subject area, at least some of which is informed by the latest research and/or advanced scholarship within the discipline. You should be aware of the uncertainty, ambiguity and limits of knowledge. Your work must demonstrate the growing extent of your knowledge and systematic understanding of concepts and underlying principles associated with the subject area. Knowledge relates to the facts, information and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding; ideally each should be complete and detailed, with comprehensive coverage.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should refer to learning from the relevant units in the module. Your response to the tasks should demonstrate knowledge of relevant concepts, theories and models, and demonstrate the skills you have developed over the course of the module such as paraphrasing, synthesis, referencing and digital skills.

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to: critically evaluate evidence, arguments, assumptions, abstract concepts and data some of which are at the forefront of a discipline (and that may be incomplete) to devise and sustain arguments, to make judgements and/or solve problems; describe and comment upon particular aspects of current research, or equivalent advanced scholarship, in the discipline. Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work. Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Your responses to the tasks should be underpinned with reference appropriate evidence.

4. Practical Skills

At level 6, you should be able to apply the methods and techniques that you have learned to review, consolidate, extend and apply your knowledge and understanding, and to initiate and carry out projects. You will deploy accurately established techniques of analysis and enquiry relevant to the discipline, and apply them in complex and unpredictable contexts, to devise and sustain arguments and/or to solve problems. You should be able to frame appropriate questions to achieve a solution - or identify a range of solutions. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context or circumstances, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be innovative and creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should demonstrate you are able to apply the knowledge gained and/or tools learned in the course of the module to the assessment task.

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for graduate-level employment requiring the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable circumstances. This includes demonstrating: the learning ability for professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences of a professional nature that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

STUDENT FEEDBACK FORM

This section details the extent to which the assessment criteria are demonstrated by you, which in turn determines your mark. The marks available for each category of skill are shown. Lecturers will use the space provided to comment on the achievement of the task(s), including those areas in which you have performed well and areas that would benefit from development/improvement.
