SITE AND CONTEXT

NEWCASTLE

Norman Castles- Windows and Doors

Chepstow: Great tower doorway.

Newcastle, Bridgend: Curtain wall doorway.

The austere stone walls of Anglo-Norman castles are generally featureless apart from occasional arrow loops and flat pilaster-like buttresses. Windows were generally small and round headed, and used sparingly. The main entrance, on the other hand, could be quite flamboyant as in the geometrically decorated doorway at Chepstow and the boldly detailed example at Newcastle, Bridgend.
