Case study Family C

THE MOTHER AND FOUR OF HER CHILDREN WERE CONSIDERED. THE CHILDREN COMPRISED A YOUNG WOMAN AGED 17, TWO YOUNG ADOLESCENT BOYS AND A NURSERY SCHOOL AGED DAUGHTER. THERE WERE SIGNIFICANT ISSUES AFFECTING THE FAMILY IN TERMS OF THE MOTHER'S PSYCHOLOGICAL HEALTH, AS SHE SUFFERED FROM DEPRESSION AND ANXIETY. THE BEHAVIOUR OF ONE OF THE BOYS WAS A PARTICULAR CONCERN AND HOUSING REPAIRS WERE ALSO SEEN AS IMPORTANT FOR THE FAMILY.

Risk Factors

Disadvantages and Advantages

- The quality of life for the children is not good because they have not got an adult figure to prompt them in certain situation in what is right and what is wrong.
- The behavior of some of the kids is having an impact on the children which has a big effect on their learning new things.

Things to look :

- The lives of all sibling.
- They could get separated be taken to different places and not see each other as relatives are no involved.
- The advantage is if the likes of Youth in need team, nurseries, college and support panel are all involved that can have possible effect on the family and the disadvantage are that they don't want help, or they are not listening to any advice.

Analysis of the rationale

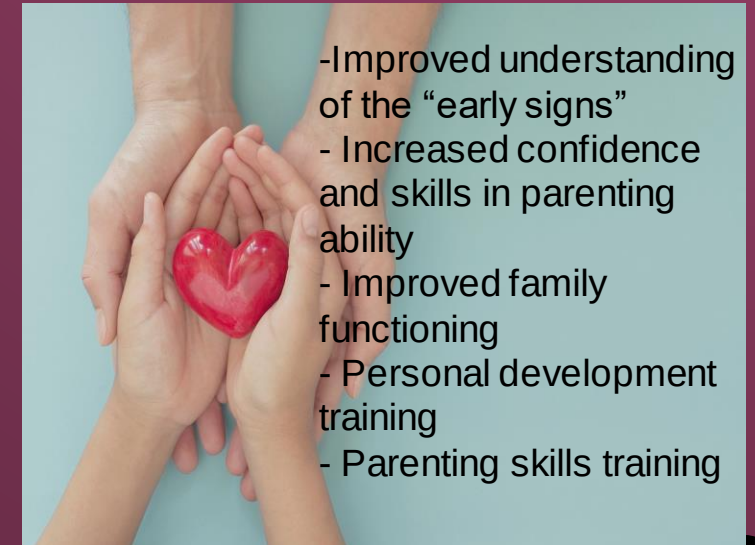

Problems: Suffered from depression and anxiety / The behaviour of one of the boys was a particular concern / Housing repairs were also seen as important for the family.

Issues after assessment: Parenting /Attendance and behaviour of the children at school / Career opportunities and training for the mother.

Actions: Improving the children's school attendance and behaviour/ Extracurricular activities for the children/ Liaising with Neighbourhood Services to carry out property repairs/parenting and employment training for the mother/ Counselling for managing the anger for one of her sons/ A specific action for the mother was to take her young daughter to nursery every day.

The mother should get help mentally and physically so improves with her condition and help the nurse's child to not to get effects by mother condition. The social service and school and nursery should involve to keep in tract to help the family. The teenage child can be involved with volunteering and social activities with community to improve the crime levels.
