Welsh lesson rationale

My aim from this session is to show my engagement with the welsh language and hopefully show my own personal progression. I plan to showcase simple greetings, phrases, commands, and questions for my students to listen and respond to in the welsh language, showing progression In their welsh language skills also.

My lesson will introduce how and when the coal fields of south wales formed.

I will introduce the lesson topic/todays date/get to know pupils etc., and ask pupils where they are from so they can relate to the topic.

Evaluation of the Welsh language development

Reflective Analysis of Teaching and Strategies For Development – including justification/rationale for pedagogical choices
Evidence of my Effective Practice	Simple use of welsh in class, using incidental welsh mainly, but also using sentences to introduce the date, my self to the class, the pupils to myself, where everyone is from, and how everyone is today. New words learnt which will help me within teaching science, developing my subject specific vocabulary. This also taught pupils new useful and topical words in welsh that they were unfamiliar with. Pupils not only practiced welsh oracy but welsh writing skills on worksheets.
Areas for my Development Personal Targets for Progress	I plan to continue to learn new welsh words within my subject, developing not only my welsh language skills, but also developing my pupils aswell.
