Children and Families definition

Children and Families is a group of one or more parents and their children living together as a unit.

INTRODUCTION: CASE STUDY FAMILY A

- This group presentation will provide a case study about family A with a lot of problem like employment and training opportunities for both parents as financial issues affecting the family were deemed to be partly due to the low pay received from the parents' employment. Also, family relationship (including the relationship between the parents), cleanliness of the home, children's mental problems, school attendance and behavior, and aggression within the home.

We will approach four diverse ways in how to help this family and this are:

- Perception of Well – being
- Analysis one of the key domains
- Analysis of the rationale policies and interventions are in place
- Discuss current policy to affect the children and families

- Children, young people and families' perception of wellbeing
- Importance
- Issues and challenges

Good morning! My name is Zhasmina Georgieva and today I will talk about perception of wellbeing and of the key domains of wellbeing – Poverty. Wellbeing is positive outcome that is meaningful for children, young people and families, because it tells us that people perceive that their lives are going well. Good living conditions e.g. housing, employment are fundamental to wellbeing. Promoting children's wellbeing is a key part of keeping them safe, helping them develop and ensuring they have positive outcomes into adulthood. Children are coming from broken homes, living in poverty, and experiencing mental health issues and bullying than ever before. With all of this going on in the life of a child, it is compromising their overall wellbeing. Positive self-esteem and confidence are the most important attributes a child can have to contribute to a successful education, as well as an overall happy wellbeing.

POVERTY – ONE OF THE
KEY DOMAINS
OF WELL - BEING

In Family A one of the key domains of wellbeing is Poverty, which I will analyse below.

Poverty is the state of one who lacks a usual or socially acceptable amount of money or material possessions. Poverty said to exist when people lack the means to satisfy their basic needs. In this context, the identification of poor people first requires a determination of what constitutes basic needs. This may be defined as narrowly as “those necessary for survival”.

Effects of Poverty in Family A

- Family relationship
- School attendance
- Aggression
- Cleanliness
- Low pay employment

Because of Family A poverty they experience multiple disadvantages through low pay employment, aggression, cleanliness, school attendance and family relationship. They become socially isolated due not having any spare funds to join in any social events or activities.

Life in poverty for them so much of struggle that often the only way to escape can be suicide.

Poverty has negative impacts on children and families' health, social, emotional, and cognitive development, behaviour, and emotional outcomes.

Children born into poverty are more likely to experience a wide range of health problems, including poor nutrition, chronic disease and mental health problems.

In the next slides my colleague Isatou will talk about analysis of rationale policies and professional interventions that are in place.

Policy and professional interventions

- Multi-disciplinary groups are the system for arranging and co-ordinating wellbeing and care administrations to address the issues of the families with complex consideration needs. The groups unite the mastery and abilities of various experts to access, plan and oversee care mutually. (care, practice and teams, 2022)

The Teams ought to have connections to other relevant services, processes and initiative's including section 36 of the mental health act.

- Safeguarding
- Remands in local authority care.
- General custody
- Healthcare
- Street triage
- drug and alcohol administrations
- Special educational needs teams.
- Parenting provision
- Family therapy
- Appropriate adult services

CONCLUSION

- Evaluating on the context of within the presentation what we focused on is the health and well-being of children, young people and families living together untied, what social issues and problems they might be having a big impact on their well-being.
- The main problems to be addressed by looking at the impact of the causes that the families may be experiencing, poverty, employment, Physical health problems mental health or even aggression and violence.
- Analysing the key domains of the rational policies and what interventions funding could be put in place for residential for children, adolescents and families there needs to be more residential programs that can support children, young people and families. Encourage working age independent living by working to be able to have secured beneficial way of living than being on benefits.

CONCLUSION

- Looking at ways of multi working is important to work with other practitioners to get a full overview of a child's or family's situation to have co-ordinated approach to be able to support these individuals, who could be at risk this is where we need to take the appropriate action to keep them safe." Multi- Agency working is one of the keys to effective safeguarding and child protection According to (Sidebotham et al, 2016).
- The multi –disciplinary groups is a good effective way of co-ordinating well-being the care of administration to address issues within any family complex who experience problems.
- These are important factors when dealing with children young people and families.
