Case Name	CMMC Data Investigation
Case Reference
Case Description	CMMC, a London-based mobile interface design company, requested a forensic investigation after suspected data theft and intentional deletion of confidential Autodesk Maya project files by former employee Rich Daley. Evidence suggests that prior to resignation, he used file-wiping software and transferred design data to a personal Google Drive account. The investigation aims to recover deleted files, identify data exfiltration, and determine the extent of intellectual property theft affecting high-value mobile phone design projects.
