my dream career

Steve Gupta

"It is a continuous journey, not just a destination"

In 1973 Steve Gupta was a 20-year-old, who moved from India to Canada to build his dream career. His budget was only $108 and his knowledge. He chose the long path of success.

He started as a life insurance salesmen, knocking on people's doors to become one of the moguls of real estate – CEO of Easton group of Hotels – building and operating 28 hotels such as IHG Hotels, Residence Inn by Marriot, Hilton and many other.

Most important :

- Finishing and getting the Cert of HE in Skills for the Workplace will help me expand my knowledge in using technologies, working in a team, time management, solving problems and mostly will allow me to increase my confidence and self belief as I am able to do what it takes to succeed and make my dreams come true.

One step closer...

- As a hotel manager, I'll be accountable for budgeting and financial management and will need to plan, organise and control all hotel services, including front-of-house , reservations, food and beverage operations, housekeeping and making sure my customers and staff are happy. I will need to expand my knowledge of managing a hotel and everything that comes with it such as making business deals with other managers aswell which will my hotel have a higher rating. Some of the best courses to develop the certain skills are:
- Glion Hotel School
- EHL Swiss Hospitality School
- University of Surrey

Conclusion

- Once I have finished both courses I will look for a job as a hotel manager this will allow me to build my experience.
- By the time the courses are completed I would like to have the appropriate skills and knowledge to continue working in the hospitality management.
