- Comments:
- This essay shows a relatively good grasp of relevant facts, concepts, theories & arguments. But the structure tends to break down in places:
 - pp. 4 & 8 - Could the section on consciousness be merged with the one on internalism & externalism? This would allow for the ideas to be discussed in a more fluid order.
 - p. 2 of the Introduction - the discussion here could be merged with that on p. 6 (the Gettier problem).

- Also, make it clear on p. 2 that a true belief, even if justified might not constitute knowledge. Try to draw out Gettier's conclusion here.
- Comments:
- Further, on p. 3, closer attention to the presentation is needed in order to achieve more precision & accuracy. Consider Kant's synthetic a priori (eg $7+5=12$). Accuracy in presentation is also called for on p. 7 in the second para.
