

To understand critical thinking, you need skills, these include:

Analysing, which is breaking down the text to discover what its made up of. For example, their nature, function and relationships.

Applying standards, which means judging a text up to a certain criteria.

Discriminating, which is distinguishing similarities and differences.

What makes a good critical thinker?

We need many skills to become a critical thinker. These include observation, analysis, interpretation, reflection, evaluation, inference, explanation, problem solving and decision making.

Characteristics demonstrated by a good critical thinker include open-mindedness, self-confidence, alertness and inquisitiveness

A range of skills and personal qualities that influence the critical thinking of Education

“Critical thinking is a form of judgement and its objective is to evaluate and analyse”

6 steps to critical thinking

Analyzing
Applying standards
Discriminating
Information seeking
Logical reasoning
Predicting

Referencing

www.google.co.uk

www.umich.edu

B. K. Scheffer and M.G. Rubinfeld, "Critical Thinking: What Is It and How Do We Teach It?," Current Issues in Nursing, J.M. Grace, Rubl, H.K. (2001)

<https://www.skillsyouneed.com/learn/critical-thinking.html>

<https://www.insightassessment.com/Resources/Importance-of-Critical-Thinking/Characteristics-of-Strong-Critical-Thinkers>