

Next week's Reading Week Task: Seminar Preparation

Seminar will take place Tuesday 16th April.

(First week after Easter break)

WoP Seminar Week – Tuesday 16th April.

What is a seminar?

- A class at university in which a topic is discussed by a lecturer and a group of students.
- An open forum to discuss a particular subject, share and test your ideas.
- Seminars are where questions are explored, views are debated and analysed and students contribute to the discussion with the tutor and each other. Be prepared to listen, and respect the views of your peers on the course, as well as your tutor.
- This exercise will form the plan for completing your writing task.

WoP Seminar Week – Tuesday 16th April.

For our WoP seminar you will need to prepare a small selection of slides to share:

- A title name or concept for your exhibition
- A very brief description/paragraph about your concept
- Show your choice of up to 5 artworks.
(artefacts, performances, media pieces, designs, films, etc.)
- The location for your exhibition
- This will give you a plan for your essay writing going forward.
- If you do not complete this you must still attend, as seeing what your peers have done will help you. Participation is key. It is an opportunity to test out your ideas.
- If you are nervous about presenting, you can send your slides to me to share. Or use the session to develop your academic voice and build confidence.

Preparation in completing this task

- The most productive way to prepare for your written submission is the WoP Seminar which takes place on 16th April. This provides the opportunity to share your ideas and get formative feedback.
- Prepare a plan for your writing based on your seminar slides
