My ideal profession

Adult Nurse

My ideal profession is to be an adult nurse. And to do that I have a long plan ahead of me. I will be continuing that course then moving on to something better, and that is doing a nursing course at a different university. I enjoy learning about health care and how to help people during the times in need which is one reason I would like to become a nurse. I also like being organised and I could be very patient which shows that I could make a good fit to this role.

Responsibilities and skills

- Ability to work well as part of a group
- To acquire each patient's faith and credibility
- To be organised and the difficult assignments should be prioritised.
- decide things involving permission and secrecy that are ethical.
- In an emergency, act immediately.
- make strategies for patient outcomes

Swot Analysis

Strengths:

- Having effective communication ability
- Being empathetic and kind hearted.
- Acting very quickly
- Being aware of my surroundings
- Knowing how to work as a team
- Being honest and dependable

Weaknesses:

- I tend to procrastinate a lot, not sticking or finishing a task.
- I am not very found of making quick decisions
- Being very shy

Opportunities:

- Easily obtaining experience by doing work placements
- Finding an apprenticeship in nursing
- Helping out in an old people's home to have more knowledge

Threats:

- I tend to get carried away with talking.
- I misinterpret some things

How my skills and abilities match the requirement

My strengths skills and abilities match the requirements of becoming an adult nurse. As I am trying to pursue a career in nursing my strengths will help me get there. For example: having good lack of communication you need this to be a nurse with lack of communication comes a great career ahead as you talk your way through things and explain to patients whatever they need to hear.

My weaknesses can be a problem but if I help my self more by going through my weaknesses and picking myself up and solving all of them it may help me getter better in time.

The opportunities that i may face will help me a lot throughout my career but not only will it help me gain experience but it will also get me ready and prepared of working in a hospital.

The threats could be very tricky in my point of view as i will be facing a lot of threats that could look bad on me so my main focus is to fix my threats and make sure I listen more and make sure I have an understanding of wat i am actually doing.

Writing for academic purposes

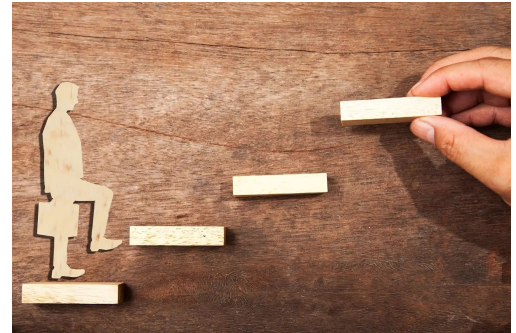

Academic writing is when you're writing formally and it's the process of gathering, interpreting and assessing information. Within being a nurse it is very important to have very formal and academic writing as it will help not only other members of staff but it will help patients understand too.

Why I would need academic writing as a skill?

- It's most likely possible that i'll be producing information about patients
- I may need to write a prescription on patients

Plan for personal growth

- To gain more experience in the nursing sector by going out and look for some opportunities to do- 3 months.
- I need to be socialised and develop my confidence skills as I tend to be shy- 4 months
- I'm going to strive to effectively improve my time management and be a bit more efficient-5 months
- Getting a more clearer understanding of what people are saying and speaking up more-6 months
- To stick to one thing and complete it before moving on to another thing and to make sure i put my head in when i'm doing my work and to not procrastinate-4 months

Conclusion

- My ideal profession is to become a adult nurse.
- I've identified my SWOT analysis, along with all of my accumulated abilities. And also included the skills and abilities that i own to match the requirements for my ideal job.
- I've included what sort of academic writing I will need for my ideal profession.
- I've made my plan which will help me out a lot to know what I will be doing with my life and this will help me gain a lot of knowledge.

In conclusion this has helped me figure out what I need to know and also what I already know for my ideal profession. This will help me gain experience and increase my knowledge and it also made me very organised as it is all about the plan and my future.
