Comments

No need to mention part 2 in the introduction – focus on what is in this document.
 Yes, a bar chart would be a much better way to display this data.
 Remember to put the numbers for the references in the main text next to the authors' names.
 You need to link all of the problems to how they cause problems for the reader building a mental model of the data.
 Good references, but needs the numbers.

Part 2

Comments

- 1) Okay, but a line chart would be better
- 2) This should be a bar chart. Don't use line charts unless the x-axis items have a clear linkage, eg a timeline or a series
- 3) Not easy to answer - better shown with percentages
- 4) >12 hours not shown
- 5) Okay
