Dear Hiring Manager,
RE: Social Worker Position

I am writing to apply for the above role that was advertised on the Walsall Government website and enclose with my CV which contains the skills and experience required to perform this position at high standards.

Working in the Health and Social Care industry represents an important position, as you work with vulnerable people that require treatments offered at high standards. I consider myself the perfect candidate for this position, as I think that I have all the strong attributes that will help me perform this position at its full potential. Being able to work in this sector for such a long time has allowed me to put myself in multiple situation that were either very delicate or very hard to be dealt with, but as I had the chance to experience more and more, I have had the opportunity to make myself flexible enough to understand that each patient needs to be treated with high importance and his needs to be satisfied, as all patients are different and require your full attention.

I was excited to see the position available, as I am looking to come back in the health and social care sector and perform my skills in the patients' best interest. I would like to draw your attention to the vast experience that I have in this field, as well as the multitude of skills that I have acquired along the way that will for sure become a strong attribute in performing this position. I have had the blessing and multiple opportunities to find myself in different environments which required the ability to learn fast, as this sector is continuously changing and all problems are different, as each patient has his own personal needs that require satisfaction.

My CV contains a series of experiences that demonstrate my capabilities in this field. Strong organizational and managerial skills, time management, written and verbal communication, as well as team working, and presentation skills are just some of the characteristics that I have developed during my work experiences. Working as a care assistant for more than 10 years has confirmed me that it is important also important to have the knowledge necessary to perform this position at high standards. That is why, I have a series of qualifications that attest the broad range of skills that I possess.

During my years of education, when I made sure that I obtain the learnings that have helped me along the way, I have also had the opportunity to experience multiple fields in which I have activated. That is why, my list of skills varies, possessing multiple attributes that are fundamental in performing this role. I am aware that this position involves a fast-paced environment where not all problems are the same, and I can admit with much confidence that I am ready to take on the task and make sure that I perform the best I can. My experience allows me to run a meeting, then carry-on tasks that will guide parents in their child development, interact with medical professionals and then inspiring behaviour changes in children.

I hope that, on consideration of my CV, you will be persuaded by my potential to perform this position at excellent standards and be a real contribution to your team. I am available for interview at any given time and am looking forward to hearing from you soon!

Yours Sincerely, Mariana Angelica Gemes
