Evaluation

The lesson aimed to develop students' vocabulary and conversational skills in Welsh through the topic of music. It included listening activities, speaking practice, and cultural discussions about Welsh music. Music is a relatable and enjoyable subject that encourages participation. Students were motivated to share their opinions and experiences. The lesson included a variety of activities. This catered to different learning styles. I used a lot of drilling to practice pronunciation.

However, more immediate feedback on pronunciation and grammar would improve accuracy and confidence. A quick quiz or peer assessment could reinforce learning. Overall, the lesson was engaging, culturally enriching, and promoted language skills effectively. With slight adjustments to pacing, differentiation, and structured speaking tasks, future lessons on music could be even more impactful.
