Foundation Element One
Saskhia Menendez - 2023285

The purpose of this portfolio is to provide research into the MOBO trust and to identify core values, revenue streams, client base and partners. It will provide visual aspects, give a general feel to current brand, as well as my proposed improvements. I feel these improvements are essential to such an important and valuable educational charity based within the UK. The idea is to raise awareness, build a strong reputation, generate better engagement with the targeted audience and gain more donations and supporters. It will be used to refresh, invigorate and attract new supporters to the trust which is based within the Tileyard community in London.

MOBO Trust

The MOBO trust (1169006) is a music education charity that was established in 2016, (www.charitycommission.gov.uk) and is a charitable arm that branches from the MOBO organisation. The purpose of the trust is supporting outstanding musical excellence by “providing financial and educational assistance to any young musicians who are involved in working with music of black origin”. (Carla William, interview 1) Music of black origin covers many genres including Rnb, Grime, Hip Hop, Reggae, Soul, Jazz and Rap. The Trust is a proud pioneer in recognising and honouring artistic and technical achievements in these areas of music. (www.mobo.com/trust)

PRS Foundation

Compared to both Help Musicians UK (www.helpmusicians.org.uk), PRS foundation (www.prsfoundation.org.uk) and the London Music Fund (www.londonmusicfund.org.uk) the MOBO trust aim is to help young musicians who make music of black origin who are from both diverse and disadvantaged backgrounds specifically. Both the PRS and Help Musicians run schemes which offer various types of grants, these are available to musicians from all walks of life, musical styles, genres and tastes. So arguably has more market appeal, along with larger funding pots that people can apply from. The London Music Fund helps support musical projects and fund instruments exclusively for young children and not so much the target market we are aiming at. The MOBO trust is therefore unique in what it does and has that competitive advantage in terms of its own objectives within the market but not compared to others in the marketplace as a whole.

LONDON MUSIC FUND

The MOBO trust has been established for the last five years compared with Help Musicians which is 100 this year, and PRS Foundation is 21 years old. The London music fund is 10 years old, which shows that the MOBO trust is the youngest and least well established compared to its competitors, also over time competition for funding and awareness are increasing meaning its harder to gain awareness and generate revenues. This highlights the need to get more donations and also shows more work is required in raising awareness of what the charity does. In a survey, I asked which educational charity have you heard of the PRS Foundation? Help Musicians UK? or MOBO trust? the results really paint a true reflection of where the MOBO trust is in terms of awareness. 69% of respondents were aware of the PRS foundation, 31% were aware of Help Musicians UK, and 0% knew of the MOBO trust. This shows how much work is needed on a grassroots level to raise awareness of the charity, which is crucial for the charities purpose and survival. (Survey 2)

Core Values

The core values of an organisation are those values we hold which form the foundation on which we perform work and conduct ourselves. In an ever-changing world, core values are constant. Core values are not descriptions of the work we do or the strategies we employ to fulfil or accomplish our mission. The core values are basis elements of how we go about our work, and are practices we use every day. (nps.gov)

The core values of the MOBO trust are advancing education in the performing arts particularly but not exclusively amongst children and young people form diverse backgrounds. It aims to help with the next steps of their career in the music industry by providing financial and educational assistance to young people involved in creating music of black origin. (mobo.com/trust)

The trust also believe that every young person should have the chance to succeed, which is why they don't just help young people from diverse backgrounds but also young people from disadvantaged backgrounds too. It's inclusive as well as being diverse; it champions equality and diversity and is a great role model for other organisations to follow.

The MOBO Trust mission is to provide life changing opportunities to exceptional talent in the creative industries and beyond.

Revenue Streams

The MOBO trust is a charity which collects money in the form of donations, from organisations and the general public. The charity does not currently sell any products, but does employ some as volunteers, as and when required. Most of the advertisement is done via the MOBO awards or events that have previously taken place. However, nothing is listed for coming up events. These are areas that can be easily improved and what I intend to focus on.

Current Partners

The logo for First Direct, featuring the words "first direct" in a bold, white, sans-serif font against a solid black rectangular background.

First Direct Bank have partnered with the MOBO trust by sponsoring previous events to help cover the advertising and running costs which have had a positive impact, it also helps build a sense of credibility. It was noted that the bank isn't very well known across the target audience, but maybe that is a reason for them to sponsor these events.

MOBO Trust Fund actually comes from a pot of funds provided by Help Musicians UK as well as public donations. The funds that were initially made available through the scheme in 2016 started at £20,000 and have now grown to £100,000 in only 5 years 20% growth year on year. (MOBO trust funding guidelines 2019)

Current Mood Board

(pintrest.com)

The existing brand Identity is rather plain and bland, above is the description of what the colour mustard represents. The colour can be bothering and arrogant, which is why I propose to change the colour scheme. (survey 1)

Proposed Logo

The new logo is striking, noticeable, confident and inclusive. I feel this will appeal more to a younger audience and improve engagement. Brighter and more vibrant colours would appeal to a younger audience a lot more, this would also help the trust to stand out more and help cut through the already crowded marketplace of educational charities, this could also help boost awareness and donations. It's to be used on the roll out of the new website, app and all social media platforms. It will also appear on the tour bus, and all merchandise sold as this also acts as another promotional tool. It appears on a black background this is to help it have more impact and helps it to stand out.

Its design is also to remain inclusive in line with core values of the organisation. With the new design I have also tried to incorporate an element of LGBT+ friendliness too, if you look there is blue that anyone who identifies as male, red for females and green for everyone else not included ensuring the trust stays inclusive and accessible to all races, religions, genders or disabilities. (Equalities Act 2010)

My Proposal for the MOBO Trust

- Redesign the Logo to Reinvigorate, Excite and Attract
- Website & Own Social Media Platforms
- Make user Experience Process Easier by Introducing an App
- Raise Greater Awareness and Engagement with the Target Audience
- Generate More Donations
- Remain Consistent to Ethos and Core Values
- Connect with People on a Grassroots Level
- Provide More Educational Resources and Recruit Volunteers
- Promote Music of Black Origin and be Creative and Innovative
- Engage with Disadvantaged and Diverse Communities Throughout England
- Offer Cultural & Educational Experience
- Sell Merchandise /Raffle to Raise Funds
- Allow for Feedback and Progress Reports Periodically to Track Data and Results
- Take Place in Summer to Maximise Attendance

Having its own website will be essential, the benefits of a website is that it will promote the charity online, it will contain elements that help achieve the goals set out in the proposal including branding, promoting products, donations, creating a sense of community and generate repeat traffic. At present the charity identity is lost and competing against the MOBO awards. (Hutchinson, 2008)

This was another problem the charity faces in terms of competitiveness; it has no website of its own or uses any social media platforms. Compared to all of the other charities mentioned, they have websites and social media pages which are used on a regular basis to help build a strong a consistent message to supporters and users alike. These are important digital marketing tools in today's consumer landscape. These tools can also be used to promote and amplify any specific messages relayed, and build a sense of community. (eConsultancy.com)

Social media platforms and a website are fundamental parts of establishing and nurturing relationships, they help build more long-standing relationships with partners and users alike, and help build a substantial following. These digital platforms can also help get stories heard and to keep any organisation relevant. Influencers and supporters can help distribute content and help raise awareness, it also helps increase engagement and build a strong brand awareness.

In a survey carried out by future charity report it revealed that 57% of charity employees believe that the lack of embracing new technology is one of the biggest hinderances to the sectors development. The report also shows that most charitable organisations need to refresh their restrictive structures, which are mainly costly and administration heavy. This means that they become more business focused and sometimes lack accountability. (thedrum.com)

People get distracted whilst surfing the net. The introduction of an app prevents this from happening and also keeps a younger audience more engaged it's also more interactive and able to keep people up to date, apply easier for funding applications, make donations, interact and share, post on blogs. This gives consumers a range of activities they can participate in if they wish.

As mobile phone users continue to find new ways to use phones for staying connected and for social media functions, opportunities are developed to promote music. The app will share similar functions to the website, however is specifically targeted at younger target audience its direct to consumer, easy to access and more convenient as well as saves any distractions of surfing the net. More people are increasingly using mobile phones to get the information they require. 73% of all media is now consumed via mobile (pamco.org.uk)

The desktop only populations have declined to just 10.6%, of course these numbers tell us that the vast majority of the digital population (78%) is multi-platform and users go both online and use mobile platforms. (www.comscore.com)

Crew (MOBO Trust Educational Festival Tour 2022)

5 x Mentors/Educators

6 x Street Team

1 x Bus Driver

2 x Performers (each week)

Stormzy Guest Appearance Perform Birmingham 2 Songs (one new release)

Live events, Street teams, and Educators/Mentors and previous winners of awards form the MOBO trust will be touring England during the summer holidays of 2022. Events will take place on Fridays and Saturdays starting 31/07 ends 29/08/22. Live performances from trust award winning artists giving them exposure and a platform to sell their own story. These will they will take place twice each day at 1pm and 6pm each day 1 hour (2 x 30 min slots) to maximise reach and provide a range of quality entertainment.

5 Consecutive weekends, Covering 5 Major Cities all with diverse and disadvantaged communities. (UK census 2011) This will help increase the charities visibility for longer, boost attendance figures, engagement, generate word of mouth and ensure good weather for the outdoor events as it will be held in the middle of summer.

All events will take place in city centres for easy accessibility, which will make it easy to get too. Entry is free to whoever attends, however donations are welcome. Merch/raffle tickets will be sold via the website and app and advertised at events. The raffle tickets will be a chance to attend the MOBO awards for two people. Events around performances will also provide educational assistance, work experience advice, funding advice, and build awareness on the trust itself and champion its work. There will be some dj sets and other forms of enetrainemt provided too. This will help buid a purpose and sense of community, it also ensure we attract the right people to attend events.

We want to generate more awareness at a grassroots level where we will connect, engage and motivate young people and build a sense of community. The target audience prefers experience over product, so we will have to be innovative and thinking outside the box we also need to get as maximum exposure. (Interview 2)

All efforts here are mainly for awareness and reputation building, the tour is purely for promotional purposes to remain in line with live entertainment law. A PPL licence will be required and this is done via the PRS (ppluk.com) It falls under the exemption category as it's a live charity event for no more than 500 attendees at any one time. Donations will be welcome, volunteers to help with crowd management who also be sourced from each city and improve on user experience. (Manchester, C. Poppleton, S & Allen, P, 2005)

STANDING UP FOR MUSIC RIGHTS

Cross Media Promotion: TV, National and Regional Radio, Website, Social Media, App, National & Regional Newspapers, Celebrity Endorsement, Video Content, Blog, Merchandise. This will ensure we reach as many people from the target audience as we can in as many different ways as possible. Media outlets have become more fragmented the audience reach for any one channel is likely to diminish along with their attention. A good example of this would be in 1998, when Sky launched its digital services. This considerably augments the range of additional channels provided by tv services, offering more choice but less viewers on any one channel. (Briggs & Cobley, 2002)

1/3 of all people find out about events via word of mouth, it's also been suggested that you're ten times more likely to go to an event if you know a friend who is going. It's all about the shared experience, and that's what we aim to provide. Merch and all promo material will hold the logo to ensure continued promotion after the events have finished. Promotion boils down to informing the world about your product, and persuading potential buyers of its value and continually reinforce public awareness. With this strategy you would simply go unnoticed by the general public. (Lathrop, 2003)

Proposed Funding Partners

£30,000 will be secured from the Arts Council England cultural recovery fund which needs to be submitted by the latest 14th February 2022. (artscouncil.org.uk)

Stormzy the grime/hip hop artist has kindly donated £25,000 to the trust to help promote awareness of race and issues specifically young black people face today. He has kindly agreed to do some promo shout outs and interviews on top making a guest appearance to help generate awareness and give some celebrity endorsement. This is a very attractive tool to entice young people to come along and to engage with us, it also has a good standing with artists core values and beliefs his reputation will also benefit from his involvement.

Transport for London has kindly agreed to donate a double decker tour bus which performances will run from, as well as the design and appearance of the bus for the tour. Its helping advertises across the London transport network. TfL will help promote a good cause and again ties in with the company's core values. (TFL.gov.uk)

This gives us a total budget of £55,000. These endorsements add credibility, create a buzz, helping with free advertisement, increase sales, increase awareness, engagement and donations.

The expenditure above is for the planned activities that are required from the budget of £55,000, everything is within the given budget. It also has a contingency plan of 10%, just in case needed and shows that any additional costs have been taken into consideration. Expenditure comes in three components production costs, service costs and marketing and promotion. (Kemp, 2002)

All costs will be recoups via the sales of merchandise, and other fundraising that will take place and this is only an estimate as it could very easily be more dependent on success, this can also be used to monitor the overall success and give a bench mark to works towards. This will take place in the post production phase.

Head of Terms Agreement

Interview One

Carla Williams Trustee of MOBO Trust 26/02/2021

1. When Was the MOBO Trust Established?

Answer: 2016

2. How Many Successful Applicants Each Year?

Answer: 50

3. What Was the Allocated Funding Available in 2020?

Answer: £100,000

4. Do You Find You Get More Applicants from a Specific Gender?

Answer: Its generally quite even 55% 45% men, however more females apply but males tend to have a higher success rate within the industry.

5. Who Partners with The Trust?

Answer: Help Musicians UK, First Direct Bank, Public Donations.

6. How Many People Have You Funded Since 2016?

Answer: 120

7. Who is Your Client Base?

Answer: Our clients have to be over the age of 18 to apply for funding from the MOBO trust and must be a resident of the UK. They should have exceptional musical abilities and be working with music of black origin. The trust aims to provide financial assistance to people from both diverse and disadvantaged backgrounds. Our mission is advancing education in the performing arts but not exclusively amongst children and young people from diverse backgrounds.

8. What Are the Core Values of The Trust?

Answer: To celebrate music of black origin and to motivate younger people and people from diverse and disadvantaged backgrounds to be able to create exceptional music and to elevate them to the next level in their musical career. The charity believes that every young person should have a chance to succeed.

9. Do You Feel the Trust Could Benefit from Its Own Website and Social Media Channels?

The Trust currently has a sub section on the MOBO Trust website. The trust itself is not currently on any social media platforms as far as I am aware.

Interview Two

Telephone Interview with Martell Webster Baidoe 20 years old music enthusiast (09/03/2021)

1. How old are you?

Answer: 20

2. How Many new tracks do you listen to each month on average?

Answer: 4

3. What Is your education level?

Answer: finished college with level 2 Btec electrician qualification

4. How do you find out about new music?

Answer: friends, radio and adverts

5. Who do you live with?

Answer: I live alone have recent found my own place so I am independent

6. How much have you spent on new music in the last month?

Answer: £4

7. What attracts you to buy new music?

Answer: Something I can relate too, must be relatable to my circumstances and life experiences, and also the design and look of that music is very important to me and what it represents.

8. What do you value most experience or product?

Answer: I prefer experience over a product because I can cherish those memories more so products devalue overtime experiences don't.

9. Have you heard of the MOBO trust?

Answer: No, I have heard of the MOBO awards but not about the trust or what they do.

10. Do you find charities to be out of date with today's trends?

Answer: Most definitely, they do not seem to connect with younger people or relate to us and how we do things today. They are not very well placed in terms of advancements with technology or things that interest me.
