Conclusion

• What is the internet

- The internet was created on January 1 1983 (BBC.2012)
- The internet is a global network that is made up of different computer systems (Hine, Christine. 2013).
- For the internet to work correctly it will use a language or code known as TCP (Transmission Control Protocol) and then IP (Internet Protocol). If you are on the internet you will have a I.P address.(BBC.2012)

Identity vs. Role Confusion

- Within adolescence between the ages of twelve and eighteen young adults will have to face between identity vs. role confusion.
- Erikson stated that within adolescent's the main goal is to develop a true sense of oneself.
- If you look at the rise in social media it is even harder for a young person to chose between identity vs. role confusion.
- This could be because of a false image that is prorated on social media such as Instagram, snapchat and Facebook.(ref)

(Simple psychology.2018)

Intimacy vs. Isolation

- Within early adulthood in the ages of twenty and forty's
- Once a person has developed a sense of oneself within adolescence, they be ready to share their personal life with someone else.
- Erikson stated that we must have a strong sense of ours self's before, we develop successful associations with others.
- This could be because of unhealth role models, porn and people throughout a macro world promoting a false life narrative.
- (Simple psychology.2018)

Theory of Human Motivation

The theory of human motivation should be viewed from the bottom to the top.

1. physiological level
 2. safety needs
 3. love and belonging
 4. esteem
 5. self-actualization
- Because of social media and the difficulty of the stability of a person personality.
 - A person who will suffer from this will be missing out numerous levels. From this theory such as self-actualization

(Maslow, Town, and Town, Stephen 2013).

Concluded

That social media has its positives and it's negatives.

For a individual it is hard to figure out who you will become.

Because of a false image of life though social media.

Social media still needs much more work for people to find the balance between both real life and a electronic one.
