

ECEY6005

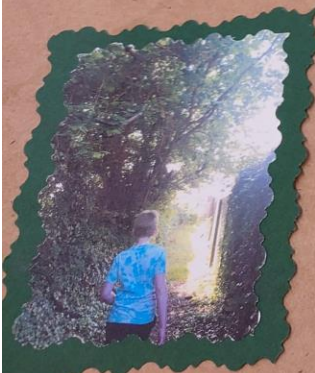

John Muir
Scrapbook

Sarah Walters

2009096

Exploring the Wild Lane at the bottom of the Garden

Come With us on a journey, just beyond the bottom of the garden.
There is a wild place,
nestled between new houses and a brand new School. Our special Walk
full of wonder + awe.

The Plan

Our Wild place is Special to us as we love to collect blackberries for bramble pie from our secret spot. We share this spot with other blackberry loving creatures like birds insects, shrews + bats.

We decided to re use the litter we didn't like to make a bird Feeder to put food back to replace what we take.

We Made two bird Feeders and Put one in the garden and one in the big tree

Birds we saw afterwards and My thoughts about them....

I am a Crow
I'm a crow, didn't you know?
A friend for your flowers.
Eating slugs + snails for hours
I'm a crow didn't you know?
Are you a friend or a foe?
I will remember and let my chicks know.

A black winged environmental warrior!

Part of nature's waste disposal crew.

I'm a crow, didn't you know?
Carrying seeds far and wide,
I help to keep the forests alive!

I'm a crow, didn't you know?

Sarah Walters

Robins in the Hedge

There's a robin in the hedge!
There's a robin in the hedge!
Quick, quick he jumped up on the ledge!

He sings his sweet song.

A feeling of Christmas all year long and thoughts of loved ones
long gone

Sarah Walters

Magpie Me

Magpie, Magpie, Magpie me.

Off I go again.

Counting one, two three...

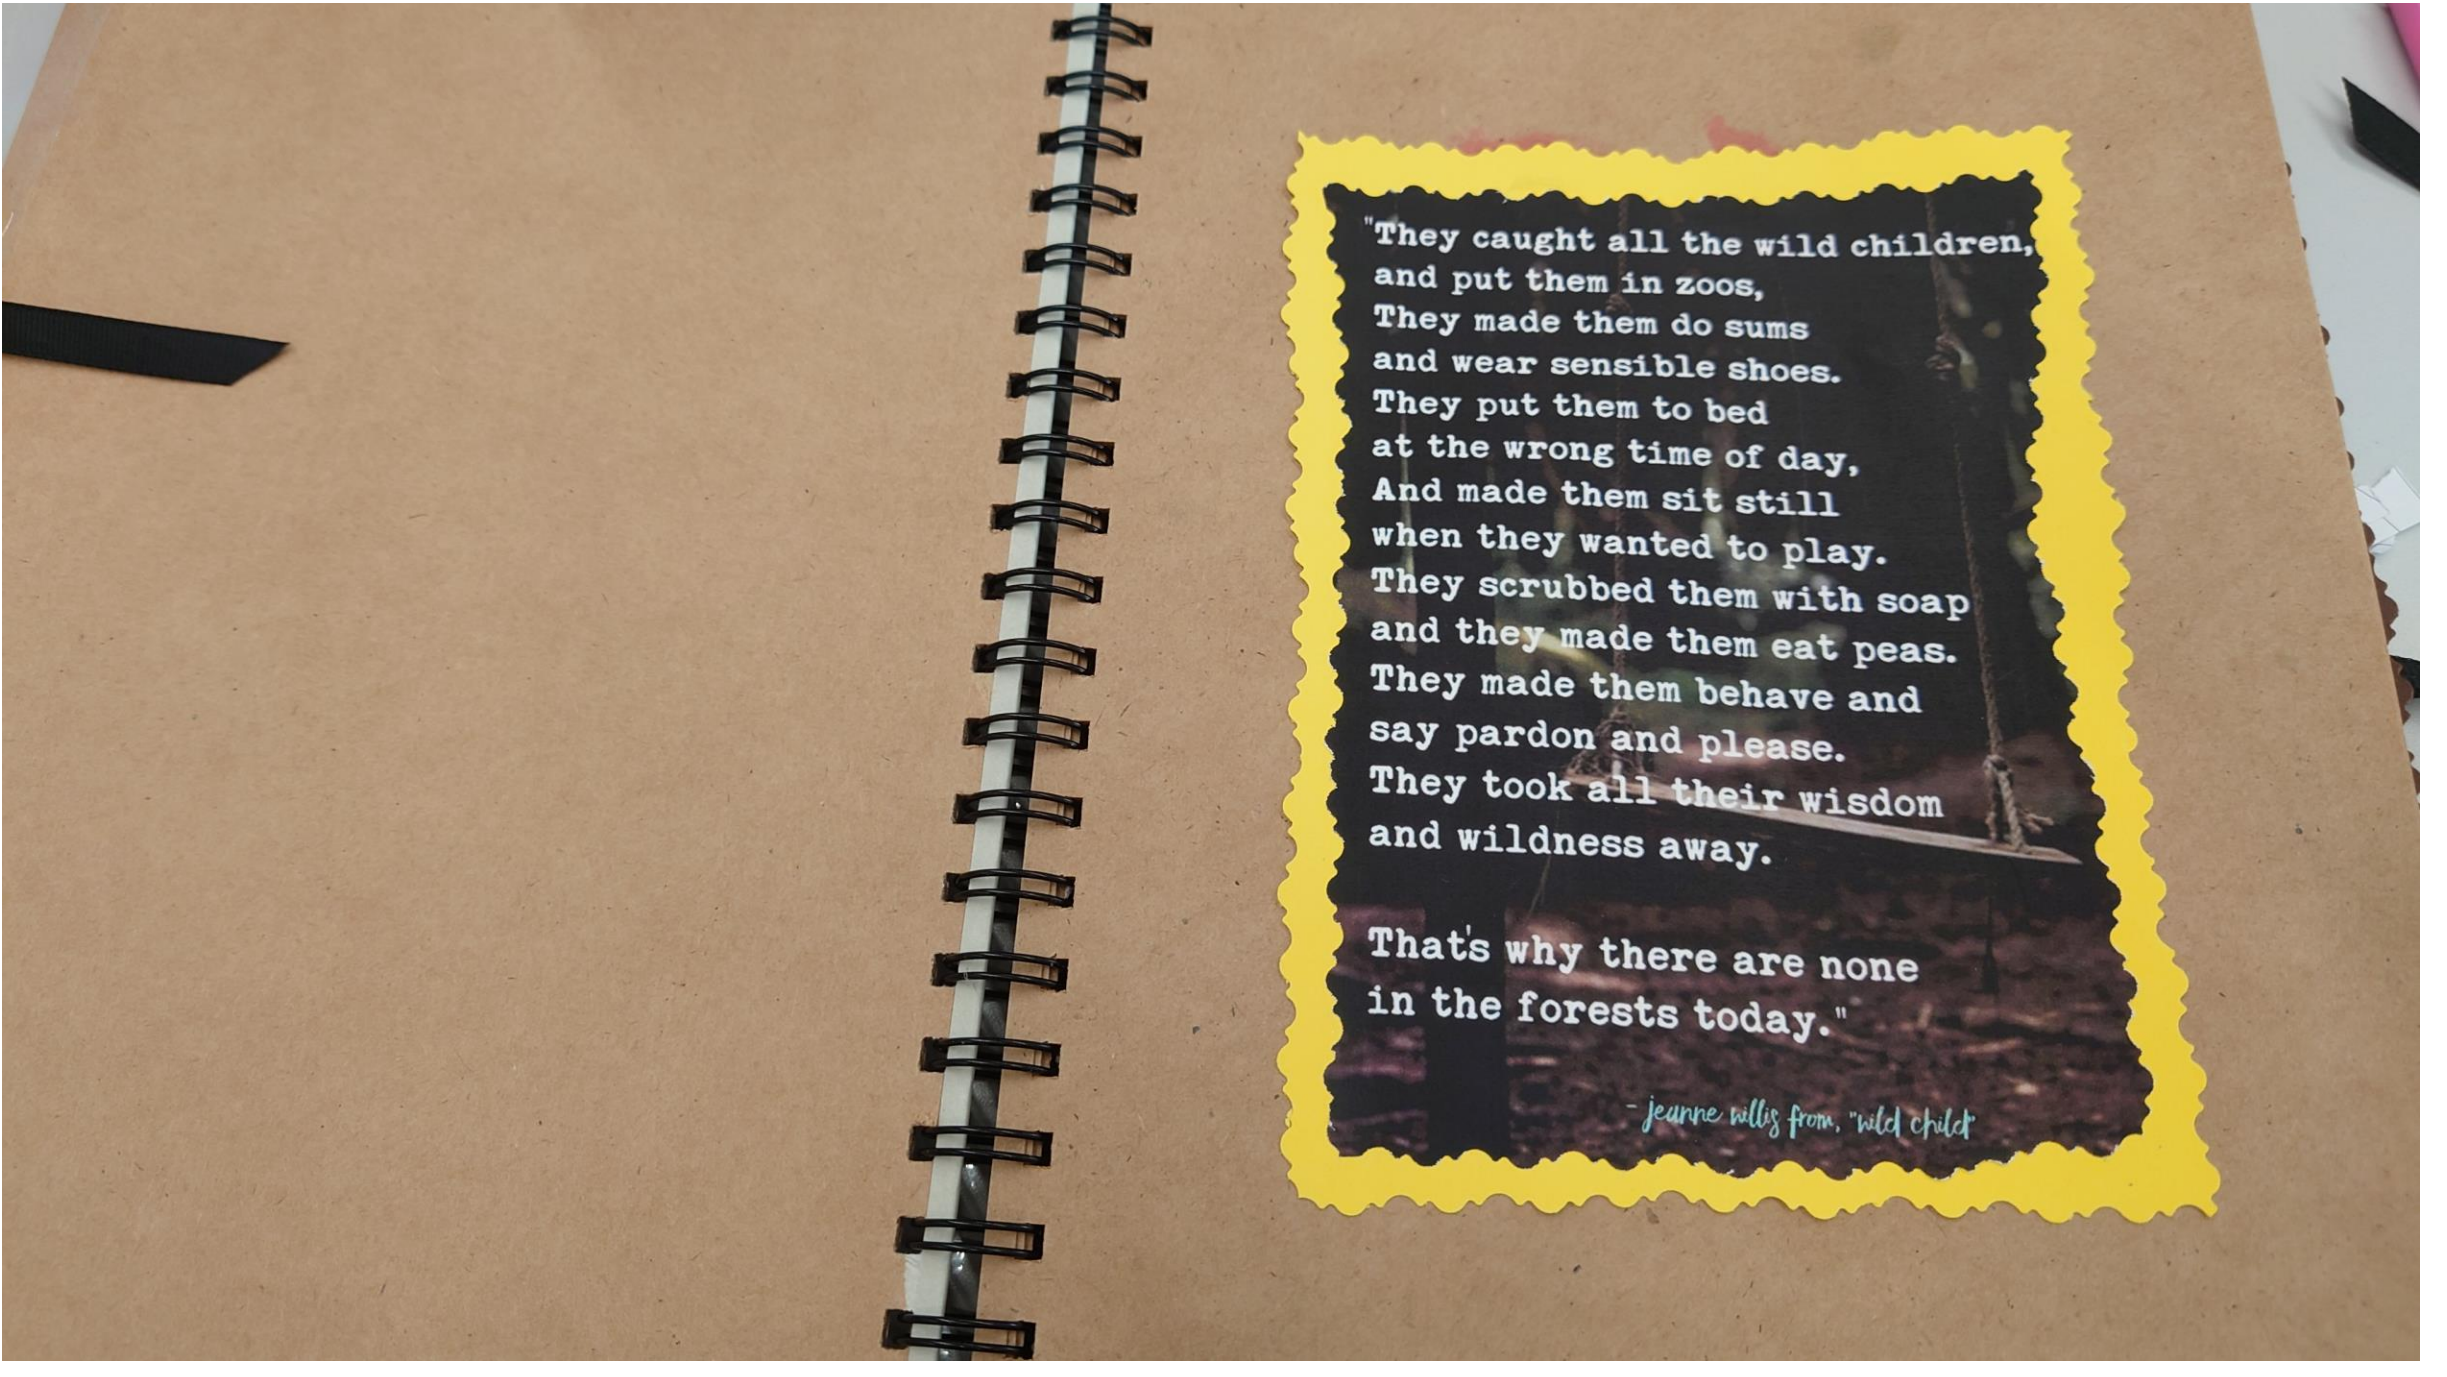

Magpie, Magpie, Magpie me

How many in the tree?

Magpie, Magpie, Magpie me.

Hopefully today I'll be luck

Sarah Walters

"They caught all the wild children,
and put them in zoos,
They made them do sums
and wear sensible shoes.
They put them to bed
at the wrong time of day,
And made them sit still
when they wanted to play.
They scrubbed them with soap
and they made them eat peas.
They made them behave and say pardon and please.
They took all their wisdom
and wildness away.

That's why there are none
in the forests today."

- Jeanne Willis from, "wild child"