Spotlight are delighted to be partnering with BBC Studios Drama Productions on this new scheme. Soaps are the bedrock of our TV industry and we believe they play a vital role in the development of all talent. This genre requires a particular set of on-screen-skills, which is why we welcome BBC Studio's commitment to preparing Spotlight members without TV experience for their scripted on-screen debut.

It is important to note that Spotlight has no part to play in the selection process, and actors will be selected by BBC Studios Drama Productions as per the criteria in this breakdown.

If your agent is submitting you for this workshop, please ensure that you meet the criteria set out by BBC Studios Drama Productions, are available on 27th November 2024 and provide them with your submission notes.

For your eyes only

Please use breakdown content to make suggestions for an opportunity, and have the related client/agent conversations. Sharing confidential content for other purposes will leave you liable to the production company, and is a breach of Spotlight Terms. You can report any concerns about breakdown content using the Report Concern button.

Local hire required

Only submit performers based in the production location.

Summary

As part of a nationwide training programme, BBC Studios Drama Productions in association with Spotlight are inviting actors based in South Wales to apply to take part in an informative Soap acting skills workshop. This one day masterclass will be held in Cardiff in November and will be run by an experienced director, providing invaluable advice about the specifics of being on a Soap set, what happens behind the scenes as well as the opportunity to perform a scene from Casualty on camera. There will also be a chance to learn about self-tape and audition etiquette as well as advice on showreels and making the most of your Spotlight profile.
