Comments: Q1. You present a well-considered answer to the question set, incorporating relevant reading material. Further discussion of the concept of development is needed - consider that the concept need not focus only on maximising well-being. Greater precision & accuracy is required in places & in your discussion of the latter half of the question you'd do well to devote space to issues concerning social care & population policies. But, overall, a very good answer to the question. Q2. You reveal an excellent grasp of the C & C approach, & show an awareness of the specifics of what the approach might have to consider in terms of policy & practice. Your answer would benefit from a discussion of which normative stance would best underpin C & C.
