

Lineation

(a)

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf transparent and then another.
One bird chirped high up; there was a pause; another chirped lower down. The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue finger-print of shadow under the leaf by the bedroom window. The blind stirred slightly, but all within was dim and unsubstantial.
The birds sang their blank melody outside.

(b)

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf

transparent and then another.

One bird chirped high up; there was a pause; another chirped lower down. The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue finger-print of shadow

under the leaf by the bedroom window. The blind stirred slightly, but all within was dim and unsubstantial.

The birds sang their blank melody outside.

(c)

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf transparent and then another.

One bird chirped high up; there was a pause; another chirped lower down. The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue finger-print of shadow under the leaf by the bedroom window.

The blind stirred slightly, but all within was dim and unsubstantial. The birds sang their blank melody outside.

(d)

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf transparent and then another.

One bird chirped high up;
there was a pause; another chirped lower down.

The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue finger-print of shadow under the leaf by the bedroom window.

The blind stirred slightly,
but all within was dim and unsubstantial.
The birds sang their blank melody outside.

The light struck upon the trees in the garden, making one leaf transparent and then another. One bird chirped high up; there was a pause; another chirped lower down. The sun sharpened the walls of the house, and rested like the tip of a fan upon a white blind and made a blue finger-print of shadow under the leaf by the bedroom window. The blind stirred slightly, but all within was dim and unsubstantial. The birds sang their blank melody outside.

from the Waves, Virginia Woolf