Task Scenario:

Massive Flooding in 2022 led to a destruction of the principal corridor for transportation in British Columbia

In 2022, there was massive flooding in British Columbia, Canada due to catastrophic weather. An atmospheric river caused severe flooding, causing landslides, with several bridge collapses, cutting off the lower mainland from the rest of Canada. In addition to this, many nearby farms, private and public properties (schools, hospitals, government offices, etc) were destroyed, causing massive losses to different stakeholders. Without repairing the bridge, there was expected problems with the transportation of goods as the principal corridor leading this region to mainland Canada was not passable. Some below project works can be carried out:

- a) Reopening of Highway 5
- b) Rebuilding the principal corridor for transportation of goods and people
- c) Reconstruction of local infrastructures that have been damaged.

Using the situation above and assuming that you are a qualified project manager tasked with solving any problems above, identify one project that you can undertake to solve any of the problems caused by the flooding and prepare and submit a detailed Project Management Plan to any stakeholder.

Your assessment will be comprised with THREE different tasks as below:

Part A- Project proposal poster- Presentation pitch in week 6

You will be making a pitch through a Poster presentation to your tutor and peers in week 6 about your project plan and receive feedback on the day.

Part B - Reflections from the feedback received from tutor and peers - 500 words

Based on the feedback from tutor and peers, reflect on the feedback in 500 words explaining what you did well, and improvements will be making in the final project plan.

Part C: Project Management Plan - To be submitted at week 11.

Submit a detailed Project Management Plan (2,500 +/-10% words) to any stakeholder. You should demonstrate the application of project management approaches and techniques discussed in the module.

To complete the task, you should consider:

1. Introduction
2. Project description
3. Scope,
4. Work breakdown structure
5. Quad Chart
6. Gantt Chart
7. Stakeholders' involvement,
8. Allocation of resources,
9. Risk Analysis
10. Conclusion
11. References

Writing style

- Brevity is desirable, provided the necessary information is properly communicated. Some suggestions: Avoid reproducing standard information and avoid appendices unless there is a specific reason for them. Consider each sentence; does it meaningfully contribute to the report?
- Only the title page, executive summary, contents, list of tables, list of figures, abbreviations, and the references should start on a separate page (you may not have all the sections, e.g., abbreviations), the other sections should not. However, a heading needs to indicate the beginning of each section. Sub-headings within sections can be an excellent way to further organise the report. The title page, executive summary, contents, list of tables, list of figures, abbreviations, and the references are NOT included in the word count.

- A table or figure should never be inserted into the report without first referring to that table or figure in the text. Reference to a figure should include a brief description of what it contains and what it contributes to the point under consideration. Figures and tables should be merged into the text or placed on a separate page immediately following the first page on which they are mentioned; they should NOT be collected at the end of the report.
- References: Harvard citation approach must be adhered (minimum of 10 scholarly literature references).
- A suitable font is Times New Roman, Calibri, or Corbel, 12 pt.
- A uniform verb tense should be used throughout the report, preferably present tense. You should limit the use of the past tense to (a) describe specific experimental methods and observations, and (b) citing results published in the past.
- Since the report is formal, the first person (singular "I" or plural "We") should NOT be used.
- Sentences should not start with "It" unless the object that "It" refers to is absolutely clear from the context.
- All text should be 1.5-line spaced.
- All pages, including table/figure pages, should be numbered consecutively.
- Overly long sentences should be avoided. Two or more short sentences should be used instead.
- An excellent way to improve style and grammar is to have others proofread the report.
- Needlessly fancy presentation (bold, italic, or underlined fonts; colour in text or figures) should be avoided unless it truly enhances the clarity of the report.
- If you choose to keep supporting material such as summaries of data, maps, notes, or survey results as appended, they can be placed in an appendix at the end of the report. They would be headed as Appendix A, Appendix B, and so on (Appendix is NOT included in the word count).
- Tables and Figures
 - Tables and figures are numbered independently in the sequence in which they are referred to in the text and start with Table 1 and Figure 1. Note: it is NOT acceptable to abbreviate the word "Figure" as "Fig." The word "Table" is not abbreviated. Further, the number and name of the Table should appear at the top of the respective table, while the number and name of the figure should appear at the bottom of a figure.

Note- Please use the portfolio template to complete your assignment

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set. You should provide evidence that you have accessed an appropriate range of sources, which may be academic, governmental, and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

There should be at least 10 academic references to support your work from a variety of valid and reliable sources. A reference list should be provided using the Harvard referencing convention.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 5, you should be able to demonstrate: sound knowledge and critical understanding of the well-established concepts and principles of the subject area and the way in which those principles have developed; knowledge of the main methods of enquiry in the discipline. Knowledge relates to the facts, information, and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should demonstrate your knowledge and understanding of the tools and techniques associated with project management.

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to critically analyse information, and propose solutions to problems arising from that analysis, including the critical evaluation of the appropriateness of different approaches to solving problems. Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation, and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification/evidence for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work. Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts, with an understanding of the limits of knowledge, and how this influences analyses and interpretations. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment: provide evidence of implementation and critical analysis of the tools and techniques applied within the specific project to show evidence of interpreting the theories and how to apply them to the project at hand.

4. Practical Skills

At level 5, you should be able to use/deploy a range of established techniques within the discipline, and apply underlying concepts and principles outside the context in which they were first studied, including, where appropriate, the application of those principles in an employment context. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real-world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Plan the implementation of a project of appropriate complexity within a workplace preparing and executing an action plan and using critical evaluation of own's ability of managing the project and draw out recommendations proposed for future.

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for employment requiring the exercise of personal responsibility and decision-making. This includes demonstrating: professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

Report: your report should be presented in a clear and coherent format.

STUDENT FEEDBACK FORM

This section details the extent to which the assessment criteria are demonstrated by you, which in turn determines your mark. The marks available for each category of skill are shown. Lecturers will use the space provided to comment on the achievement of the task(s), including those areas in which you have performed well and areas that would benefit from development/improvement.
