Bears and Supermarket

Teddy bears seem neither male/female appealing to a wider audience. Teddy Bears are an iconic symbol of comfort and protection and are a trusted household friend to most. “ [My Teddy] still watches over me at night! It made many travels around the globe with me” (Caldas-Coulthard,2003, p.19).

The bears are all Nature /Guardians of the Earth. Sea, Plant, Animal, Re-use. Kind, Bear are just a few. Their motto,' Protectors of our Earth and power to the Planet!'

Fig 2: The iconic 'Care Bears' similar

“Practicing sustainability empowers children to construct knowledge, laying foundations for an environmentally responsible adulthood” (ACECQA, 2016).

The bears purpose is to educate, on the principles of looking after themselves and the Planet.

“It is time for early childhood education to fully engage with sustainability “

“take bigger steps for the creation of healthy, just and sustainable futures”. (Davis, 2010, p.14).

The bears will be used mainly by children.

Customise bears – clothes, age appropriate language and dialect. Collaborate with: (buildabear, 2020).

Responds, sings, tells stories, gives information, facts about item and costs, what ingredients needed, recipes and what are good choices? If bear is scanned and listened too, it will change colour depending which ‘Guardian’, grow warmer, develop a heartbeat a pulse, open eyes, smile, grow, tell jokes, laugh when right choices made. My aim is to empower the young with knowledge to be able to discuss, feeling, actively listen, asking, questions about the environment.

Teddy can play games, tell jokes and stories, has an amazing singing voice. Dress up and look after him/her by giving good food, like fruit and vegetables, listen and talk as ‘he gets lonely’. He can turn into a Guardian/Nature bear. You will get a book to colour which has all the Guardian friends and a 'certificate of 'friendship'. When you come in next time Bear may even introduce you to his other Nature Friends.

In the (Environment Bill 2020) Government states, "that we have responsibility to prevent waste, introduce clear product labelling and requires provision of information to buyers of products". By using the Bears, you will be innovators and Leaders in your field.

You will be socially responsible to your customers, building an undoubted reputation for joining the UK, in the" Governments manifesto of delivering the most ambitious environmental programme of any country on earth" (Environment Bill 2020), empowering, involving, offering proficient choices to the customer to make best judgements to Save the Planet.

The 'Guardians' will educate children in values and choices regarding their health and the Environment. They will comfort and amuse the children throughout their experience. You can download an app, so that bear can tailor you and your child' s experience. Giving offers, price checks, alternatives, such as gluten free options, what products are cruelty free, safe/non- toxic. The bear will remember your choices for future purchases. The bears are regularly cleaned always updated with the latest technology and security. They are an invaluable source of information and well -being for everyone.
