Comments:
Having read this essay it has been found that much of it uses the exact wording in your sources. That is, sentences have been copied word-for-word from various secondary sources. When you use sources in this way, quotation marks must be inserted around the bit of text that is copied (and a reference must be provided). Alternatively, ensure you fully digest the reading material before putting the ideas into your own words - a reference must still be provided when you do this.
