INTRODUCTION

- ▶ The assessment is focused on identifying the current position of the immigrant community in the UK living in Camden
- ▶ The immigrant community members often face discrimination, and this impacts their mental health and wellbeing
- ▶ In this assessment, the community's current position is extrapolated with the focus on health and social needs alongside an evaluation of the impact of discriminatory practices

Overview of the chosen community – Immigrants

- ▶ In the UK, currently, there are 6.0 million immigrant people of non-British nationality resident in different cities (Commons Library, 2022)
- ▶ The concentration of the immigrant population is found to be higher in and around London at over 35%
- ▶ Currently, the main population group which has immigrated to the UK are the EU nationals constituting about 3.4 million (BBC, 2022)

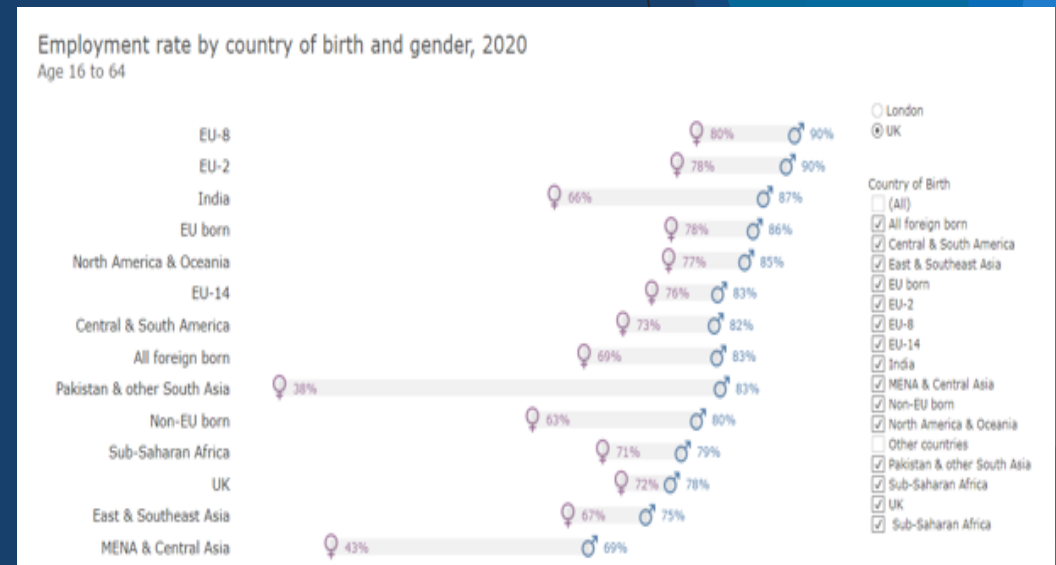

Description – educational status

- ▶ As per the Office of the National Statistics, the educational status among UK immigrant vary from secondary to master's level (ONS, 2022)
- ▶ The high range of educational qualifications is due to the differentiated income range among the members
- ▶ In 2018, education departed around 7% of immigrant children through state-funded schools and 10% through private secondary schools (UNHCR, 2022)

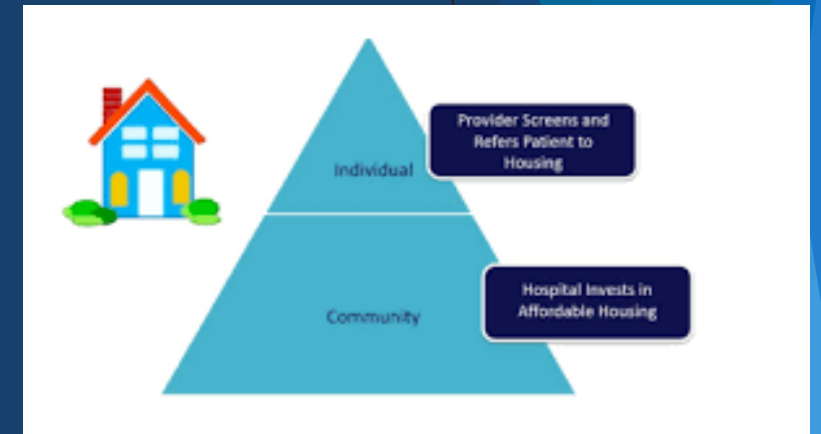

Description – Employment and income generation

- ▶ The Migration Observatory is the responsible organisation for the publication of reports regarding migration employment in the UK (Migration Observatory, 2022)
- ▶ In 2021, 49% of immigrants took advantage of the unemployment benefits
- ▶ Indian men are the most employed among the UK immigrants, with around 87% of immigrants already de-registering themselves from unemployment schemes

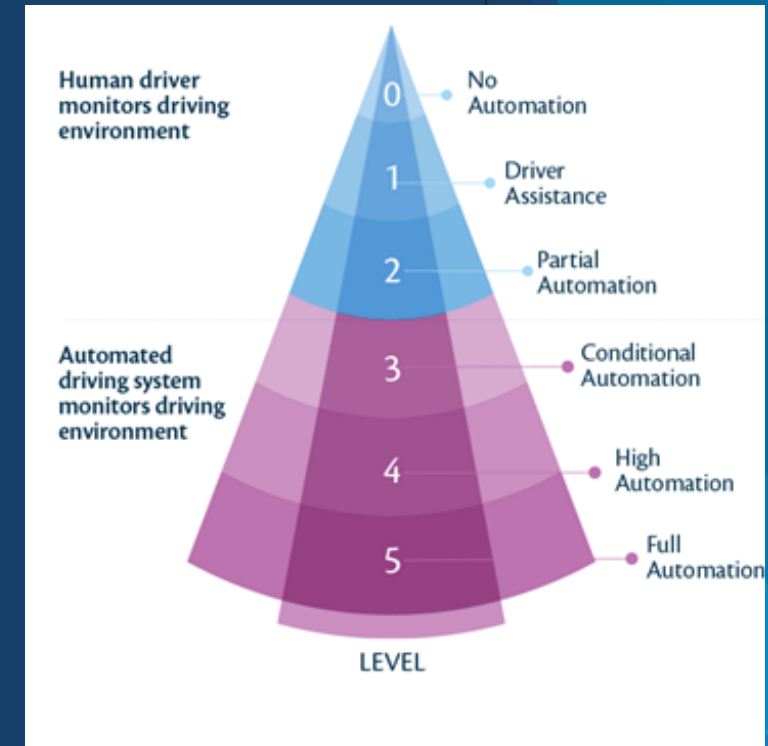

Description – health and social needs

- ▶ On average, migrants are healthier than that of UK born persons, with the recurrence of health issues lower by 15% (Migration Observatory, 2022)
- ▶ The low-skilled population among migrants tend to suffer from hazardous health conditions like asbestosis and emphysema due to their working condition
- ▶ The mental health condition of the immigrant population is subsequently impacted due to the psychological issues

Evaluation of chosen community using theory

- ▶ The jurisdictional theory of migration is the supportive concept wherein it has been depicted that migration of the population mainly occurs due to changes in needs
- ▶ The theory helps in evaluating the impact of the political environment within a region as the most important determinant for migration (Daleure, 2019)
- ▶ The continent from where migration occurs is deprived of advanced facilities and may be quality of life is significantly lower in that, as per the theory.

Effect on community – policies

- ▶ A new immigration system has been adopted in the country, which is based on the delivery of point-based visas (BBC, 2022)
- ▶ The policy statement depicts that the newer policies are stricter and more reliable for the foreign population
- ▶ The visa on arrival is now limited only to countries where relations with the UK have developed strongly

Effect on community – policies

- ▶ The new welfare scheme has been launched for UK immigrants where it has been denoted that the people residing have all protective rights (Migration Observatory, 2022)
- ▶ The schemes for effective output and relevant legal standards have been launched for the people who have migrated to other countries
- ▶ The effective policies in place have been relevant to the modern standards related to the efficient mechanism for efficient choice-based outputs

Practice in the health and social sector impacting the community

- ▶ Health and social services are made available to immigrants within the UK
- ▶ As per the Health and Social Care Act (2012), the provisions of health and social care are ensured even for immigrants to the UK (Migration Observatory, 2022)
- ▶ In this context, The Equality Act (2010) is applicable for the overall improvement of the health conditions of the immigrant people in the UK.

Implications of the policy on chosen community

- ▶ The implications of legal standards are highly beneficial for the immigrant population in the UK
- ▶ The standards of such policies like the new immigration policies have been related to the beneficence of the immigrants (Guzman, et al., 2020)
- ▶ The policy of provision for health care to every person in the UK has been relevant as it has benefited the immigrants

Current situation of the community in the UK

- ▶ In the UK, the number of immigrants is high in number and have been capable of leading a prosperous life (Migration observatory, 2022)
- ▶ The education level of the immigrants is determined by their will to educate themselves
- ▶ The immigrants doing brown collar jobs have a higher chance of getting impacted with the diseases

Discrimination impacting mental health – prejudice

- ▶ Prejudice regarding the behavioural aspects of the immigrants impacts heavily on the population
- ▶ This creates a negative health condition and mental wellbeing standards (Migration Observatory, 2022)
- ▶ The discrimination leads to overall implications on the negative impact

Discrimination impacting mental health – empowerment

- ▶ The lack of empowerment among the women population is the main reason for impacted outcomes (ONS,2022)
- ▶ The significant impact is laid on the prospective capacity for the health condition of the individuals
- ▶ The lack of ways for empowerment has impacted their mental capacities significantly

Discrimination impacting mental health – equality and rights

- ▶ The equality standards are not currently followed among the immigrants (Commons library,2022)
- ▶ The lack of rights or violation of their rights has created a negative environmental condition
- ▶ In association with the impacts of the overall conditions have been negatively impacted due to the overall lack of implicated conditions

Community project – The Welcome Project

- ▶ The initiative is taken for the immigrants and makes them comfortable (Mahfud,et al, 2018)
- ▶ The likeminded people are kept with each other and significant activities are performed
- ▶ The overall implication lies in supportive activities being designed

Community project – Praxis.org

- ▶ The charitable organisation has taken actions that support the immigrant community members (Praxis, 2022)
- ▶ The organisation has laid out campaigns in support of migrants and refugees
- ▶ It has further collected funds for the saving of dignity and providing support for the immigrants

Community project – the British Community Developers

- ▶ The organisation has undertaken many community-related activities and supported the cause of migration (Prospects,2022)
- ▶ The monetary support provided to individuals has been associated with strengthening the values
- ▶ The overall support has been provided by the organisation in alignment with the requirements

How technology and social media can be beneficial for the community?

- ▶ The use of technology has been highly beneficial for the overall support and has helped the inaccessibility of the information (Jenkins,et al,2021)
- ▶ The technological perspectives are highly used in orientation to the subsequent benefits for the improved circumstances
- ▶ The use of technology has connected the main lands to the foreign lands through technologically advanced applications

How the community can be sustained?

- ▶ The community has been sustained by the prospective measures of support and overall help
- ▶ The prosperity in term of economic implications have also supported the community
- ▶ Another beneficial mode is through benefits in the long term (Prospects,2022)

Conclusion

- ▶ In conclusion, it has been found that economic support is one main reason for the prosperity
- ▶ The factors of positively implicated health condition are also specifically needed
- ▶ The overall growth and hence relation to the modern legislative measures have been found to be mainly implied.
