Generic Assessment Criteria	Marks available	Marks awarded
1. Engagement with Literature Skills
Your range of references is very restricted to three articles on Greek Architecture/culture. The web pages are not correctly referenced – they should appear as a list at the end of the essay and be referenced back to the text.	20	8
2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills
You don't answer the essay question – 'Why Study Architecture Today'. You make up your own question 'Why I love Architecture'. You need to address the question set in the assignment. There is a short section on a computer game and then a long section on ancient Greek architecture. You need to be explicit about how the computer game has influenced you personally and why it is important to study Greek Architecture. By doing so you can become more analytical in your writing – not just descriptive. You need to select material that responds to the question and answer it directly.	15	6
3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills
The essay is primarily descriptive. There is no real analysis and there is no general theme.	20	8
4. Practical Application Skills
You need to work on your grammar and read back through your work – there are quite a few typos. Try to avoid casual phrases such as 'gives you a different vibe to look at' or 'gives out an older classic vibe'. You need to work hard at your next written assignment, pay careful attention to the question and be more critical, analytical, in your writing.	25	10

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice
The question 'why study architecture today' is not addressed. The essay is predominantly a number of observations on ancient Greek architecture – some of which are not accurate.	20	8
