

Come see the “Traveling Arab!”

Being held within the University Library of Leiden is a spectacular exhibit demonstrating the journey of a traveling scholar! Come along for the ride, and see what this amazing man saw. Dead traditions and interesting stories relating to ancient monuments. This will be in Arabic, Dutch and English

Take a map and go on a journey through time, experiencing people from all over the world alongside artefacts from the local museum.

Make new connections and new contacts with people from the University and City. Make new friends and spend time in a very immersive library.

Opening day will include talks from various scholars and refreshments will be provided.

ALL PEOPLE WELCOME

Fig One: Artists rendition of Al-Masudi

At: University of Leiden, Library

When: 9th September— 9th February

Free Entry— Collect map from main reception
Available in English and Dutch.

All donations would be welcome towards helping refugees!

Fig Two: Muslim Lady looking at manuscripts, to give a general idea to the feel of the exhibit

Reference List:

Fig One: http://m.browsebiography.com/bio-al_masudi.html , Last edited: 22nd November 2010, Accessed: 10:52 11/04/2019

Fig Two: <https://www.thestar.com.my/lifestyle/entertainment/arts/frame-up/2014/08/10/echoes-of-the-past-in-malay-manuscripts-exhibit/> , Author: Priya Kulasagaran, 10 August 2014, Accessed 10:55 11/04/2019

Background: <https://www.outdoortrip.com/desert-safari-around-pyramids-by-quad-bike> , All rights reserved to OutdoorTrip, 2019. Accessed: 10:58 11/04/2019