LITERATURE REVIEW FOCUS

Misuse, mistreatment, and maltreatment are all examples of domestic violence and abuse. Abuse can be both mental and physical, and it is difficult for the victim to manage in a domestic setting. Any action that purposefully hurts or injures someone through misuse or incorrect behavior is referred to as abuse. Abuse occurs when a person causes physical, sexual, or psychological harm to a kid or an adult. Negligence, as well as a lack of care and love, can harm a kid or an adult. Domestic abuse has become a widespread problem in the United Kingdom as well. To protect children, the UK government has enacted many laws and regulations regulating various sorts of domestic violence and abuse. The government, families, community and each individual need to maintain the regulations to prevent domestic violence from the society for the betterment of society and the establishment of proper physical and mental state of children and adult.

The aim of this task is to identify the most vulnerable group for domestic violence and abuse in the UK to determine the prevention processes of reducing the level of domestic violence and establish an appropriate living place in the society for all people. The objectives of this task are to identify different cases of domestic violence in the UK, to identify the group of the victim of domestic violence and to develop prevention methods to stop domestic violence from the UK.

The questions of this research will be based on the identification of the victim of domestic violence in the UK including the age group and reason of the violence and the analysis of different case studies to understand the situation which will help to come to a prevention decision.

METHODS

This research is based on both primary and secondary research as the primary data will be collected from people of different age, race and sex of different domestic setting. On the other hand, the secondary data will be collected through analysing 10 articles or case studies to know briefly about the domestic violence in the UK. This will help to adopt the prevention method easily.
