TASK DESCRIPTION

ASSESSMENT TASK-100% (Task 1-75% and Task 2-25%)

Individual written report:

Task 1: Individual written report (75%)

This individual assignment requires you to demonstrate knowledge and skills you have acquired throughout the course of this module by producing a 3,500-word (+/- 10%) word, fully referenced, academic report that could include additional material such as charts or screen design sketches and addresses the tasks given below.

To begin with choose any organisation in any sector that have a reliance on information and knowledge as part of their product or service offering and span a range of different market segments or community activities. For example the organisation could be, fashion, food retail, beauty, IT, publishing, hospitality, leisure, tourism, local college, university, community centre, library, sport centre etc....

Use your study of the organisation to determine what types of knowledge exist and what would be useful to the main stakeholders and what type of technology would be most appropriate for them.

Please note that the organisation you choose is likely to fall in to any one of the three possible scenarios below:

- a) The org have no visible or recognisable KM system (If so, aim to propose one)
- b) The org have a KM in place but there is a room for improvement (If, so, aim to propose how that could be improved)
- c) The org already have a very good KM system and may be nothing more can be done! (If so, aim to propose how that can be sustained and how the org can pre-empt the future business challenges).

P.S. You can use web resources to enable you to understand the context in which your chosen org functions. Please do-not limit yourself, to web-based sources of information but it is paramount for you to understand the current KM system and to also the challenges they are facing and the opportunities they can gain from having appropriate KM system

Your report will be expected to clearly explain the role and extent of KM system that can create an impact to the organisation you chose.

Report Details:

Write a report, and include the following sections:

- 1) An overview of your chosen organisation by briefly highlining the historical background of any KM related activities;
- 2) Who the participants are, both in the contribution and the collection of knowledge.

- 3) Evaluate the IM/KM approaches of your chosen org that have the potential to contribute to their overall success.
- 4) The incentives to participate on KM activities with an explanation why it is important for the company to invest on the Knowledge project.
- 5) The potential challenges and opportunities related to maximising the use of KM system
- 6) How will new sources of knowledge (including new product and/or services) will be identified and distributed to business partners, clients and other stakeholders
- 7) How the operating costs and legal requirements will be managed
- 8) Your plans to promote the KM system and making all stakeholders beware of the system and helping them to make the best use of it.

Ensure that your report adequately address the following requirements.

- a) Your report is within the requested word limit of 3,500 +/- 10% words.
- b) Uses a suitable report structure (including executive summary)
- c) Is presented in a professional way
- d) Uses good grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- e) Complies with University guidance on referencing: UWTSD Harvard Referencing Guide
https://uwtsd.ac.uk/media/uwtsd-website/content-assets/documents/library-and-learning-resources/infoskills/Harvard-eng_v.1.2.pdf

Task 2: Individual Poster Submission (25%)

As consultant advising your chosen organisation, you are now required to show case an understanding of what it means to have 'better KM system' that takes all the stakeholders on a journey explaining the role and extent of KM system along by providing practical examples of how small changes can deliver big improvements.

The poster presentation tests knowledge and understanding skills and transferable skills for life and professional practice. The poster presentation also provides an opportunity for you to succinctly present your understanding of the technical elements of KM system at work that would enable your chosen organisation comprehend the challenges and opportunities of KM application.

Your single page poster therefore should succinctly demonstrate how to:

- 1) Connect people to create, share and exploit knowledge more effectively
- 2) Connect people to the information they need to develop & apply their knowledge in new ways
- 3) Connect people to the tools they need to process knowledge
- 4) Promote the knowledge-sharing culture among the employees.

You could do the above by:

- a) Identifying the possible KM tools / technologies and describe their purposes
- b) Demonstrating how it will be used or accessed, including screen design, access points, security restrictions, other applicable options.
- c) How will it interact with other ongoing systems
- d) How you may implement the chosen KM system without spending much of the organisation resources
- e) Describing ways how you the knowledge accumulated could be commercialised

Guidance/rules for poster presentation:

- a) Have the 'Poster Presentation Title'- Knowledge Management (KM) System in practice at organisation X
- b) The purpose of the poster presentation
- c) Evaluation of the proposed KM framework (including potential benefits and drawbacks)
- d) Poster Should highlight the key points, should be succinct and to the point (include only keywords and phrases for visual reinforcement)
- e) If you are using graphics and charts, make sure they are not difficult to read, limit animation (too much animation can be distracting), and a box indicating the key reference/s (if any).

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by relevant scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set. You should provide evidence that you have accessed an appropriate range of sources, which may be academic, governmental and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment: There should be at least 15 academic references to support your work from a variety of valid and reliable sources. A reference list should be provided using Harvard referencing convention.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 5, you should be able to demonstrate: sound knowledge and critical understanding of the well-established concepts and principles of the subject area and the way in which those principles have developed; knowledge of the main methods of enquiry in the discipline. Knowledge relates to the facts, information and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You will need to select and include the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set and evaluates the concept and importance of knowledge management in terms of an organisation's knowledge assets and their management;

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to critically analyse information, and propose solutions to problems arising from that analysis, including the critical evaluation of the appropriateness of different approaches to solving problems. Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification/evidence for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work. Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts, with an understanding of the limits of knowledge, and how this influences analyses and interpretations. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Critically analyse and evaluate your sources and draw appropriate conclusions supported by academic references. You should demonstrate your knowledge and understanding of relevant theories and models associated with critical thinking

4. Practical Skills

At level 5, you should be able to use/deploy a range of established techniques within the discipline, and apply underlying concepts and principles outside the context in which they were first studied, including, where appropriate, the application of those principles in an employment context. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Critically analyse and evaluate the KM implemented by your chosen organisation and describe the input, processing, and output of such a system

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for employment requiring the exercise of personal responsibility and decision-making. This includes demonstrating: professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Your report should be presented in a clear and coherent format. Write a reflective note on your learning from the module and what are the areas you might have identified that need to be improved in the future.
