

Portfolio Requirements

You are required to evidence your progress on this (online) pre-sessional course and should submit the following for your portfolio:

Evidence of two writing assignments

Evidence of two reading assignments

Evidence of two recorded speaking assignments (1 of which should involve speaking and listening)

Evidence of two listening assignments

There will be several opportunities to complete your portfolio throughout the course and at least half of all assessment will be undertaken in real time.

Written Assignments

Written assignments can either be set as homework or in real time throughout the course.

Your portfolio pieces may include one assignment undertaken as home learning in addition to one handwritten assignment completed during a timed live session with your tutor.

An example of a written assignment is a written essay. Minimum word count: 250. Time 60 minutes

Reading Assignments

Reading assignments can either be set as homework or in real time throughout the course.

Your portfolio pieces may include one assignment undertaken as home learning in addition to one assignment completed during a timed live session with your tutor

An example of a reading assignment is a reading comprehension. A text followed by a series of question types. Reading assignments will be completed within a time limit.

Speaking and Listening Assignments

Speaking and listening assignments will all be undertaken in real time throughout the course.

An example of a speaking and listening assignment is a spoken response to prompts. This could be responses to questions asked by your tutor or in a discussion.

Listening Assignments

Listening assignments will all be undertaken in real time throughout the course.

An example of a listening assignment is a note-taking task in response to an audio recording.