When deciding what I wanted to create for my three minute video I instantly wanted to create a black and white drawing using graphite, this is how I started my art journey when I was younger, I thought it would be fitting to use it years later for my fine art degree, this represents how far I've come in life and skill. My drawing consisted of a graphite drawing of my puppy Bailey, as an artist that always gravitates to creating pieces inspired by the buildings and nature around me drawing a photo of my pup was fitting, along our walks daily I see the outside world in different lights, whether and times, which can affect the shadows and coloured we see and how I then proceed to create the pieces from the references, this also ties into the fact that we have been looking at light this term. I also chose to draw my puppy for the Me, Myself and I video as he is always around me when creating art pieces, finishing work off for classes at home, walks, taking my reference photos outside, even more personal parts, when I'm eating, ill or even upset/stressed. Dog's are known as 'man's best friend' and this is true, they are intuitive and can sense you well, they can make you happy by just spending time with them, this is why I chose to draw Bailey as I have had good and bad times since having Bailey and he is always there to improve my mood. I created the drawing within two days and I am happy with the outcome, I haven't drawn an intricate detailed drawing in a few months and was slightly worried about creating such a detailed drawing in such a short time. However, the only part of the drawing that didn't work in my favour was the whiskers, I planned to use a small round stylist to create arks in the paper and then when I would draw over them the whiskers would stay white, but I unfortunately forgot to add these in and wasn't able to add them in after the drawing was complete, I am thankful that the whiskers weren't extremely visible in my reference photo and even with leaving the whiskers out in the drawing I am still happy with how my drawing turned out.
