Tasks:

To demonstrate effective leadership and management skills it is important to be able to research a subject, communicate your knowledge and understanding in an appropriately academic manner and apply your knowledge and understanding in a workplace context. This assignment requires you to give a presentation on a topic to your fellow students, plus prepare an essay.

Task 1

1. Using at least 5 peer reviewed journal articles published in 2022 or later, plus other sources, prepare and give a presentation based on the scenario below:

You have applied for the role of team leader/manager at your current or previous place of work. Part of the selection process requires you to give a presentation in which you critically analyse the leadership style you possess and discuss why this type of leadership is necessary to successfully navigate future challenges in your specific organisation. You must refer to leadership questionnaires and feedback from your own manager regarding your leadership style and must also include specific detail regarding the future challenges that your organisation will face.

If you have never worked or are self-employed, your lecturer will give you a case study organisation on which to base your presentation.

2. No more than one record card of notes will be allowed. You must practise your presentation sufficiently so that you do not require copious notes and must not read out your entire presentation.
3. You should regularly refer to literature, to support your points and your slides must contain in-text citations (the reference list should be placed on the final slide/at the end of your presentation).
4. You may use any presentation format you would like – for example, Powerpoint, Prezi.
5. The presentation must not exceed 10 minutes, with 5 minutes for questions from the lecturer. Questions will include how you researched and constructed your presentation, as well as your arguments.
6. Presentations will take place week commencing 10th November 2025.
7. You must upload a document that contains your presentation to Turnitin by 3pm on Friday 7th November 2025. If you use Powerpoint, you should upload the Powerpoint slides and if you use a website or other non-standard format, you should upload any written content and your reference list instead and email a link of your presentation to your lecturer.

Task 2

Your task is to write a 2000 word essay on the topic of leadership and change.

Critically discuss how at least two of your personal experiences of change compare with best practice models and theory. You must include details such as where and when you worked, which role you occupied, the nature of the change and why it was or was not successful. It may be that you were an employee in these scenarios, or that you were responsible for managing the change. You may have been in paid employment or undertaking unpaid/voluntary work. Your discussion should include a critical discussion of relevant models and theories relating to leadership and managing people through change.

Your essay should be well structured, with an introduction, main body to address the above, plus a comprehensive conclusion.

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set; you should make use of scholarly reviews and primary sources, where appropriate (for example, refereed research articles and/or original materials appropriate to the discipline). You should provide evidence that you have accessed a wide range of sources, which may be academic, governmental and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should use at least 5 sources for your presentation and at least 15 sources, to underpin your points in your essay.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 6, you should be able to demonstrate coherent and detailed knowledge and a systematic understanding of the subject area, at least some of which is informed by the latest research and/or advanced scholarship within the discipline. You should be aware of the uncertainty, ambiguity and limits of knowledge. Your work must demonstrate the growing extent of your knowledge and systematic understanding of concepts and underlying principles associated with the subject area. Knowledge relates to the facts, information and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding; ideally each should be complete and detailed, with comprehensive coverage.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should demonstrate sufficient knowledge of a range of leadership styles. Your work should contain explanations of relevant theories and models of change.

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to: critically evaluate evidence, arguments, assumptions, abstract concepts and data some of which are at the forefront of a discipline (and that may be incomplete) to devise and sustain arguments, to make judgements and/or solve problems; describe and comment upon particular aspects of current research, or equivalent advanced scholarship, in the discipline. Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work. Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should present clear, well-argued points relating to how your leadership style is suitable for a management position and how your personal experiences compare with best practice. Your points should be well supported by literature and include sufficient critical analysis. Your conclusion should be comprehensive. You should provide clear and logical answers to the lecturer's questions following your presentation.

4. Practical Skills

At level 6, you should be able to apply the methods and techniques that you have learned to review, consolidate, extend and apply your knowledge and understanding, and to initiate and carry out projects. You will deploy accurately established techniques of analysis and enquiry relevant to the discipline, and apply them in complex and unpredictable contexts, to devise and sustain arguments and/or to solve problems. You should be able to frame appropriate questions to achieve a solution - or identify a range of solutions. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context or circumstances, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be innovative and creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment: You should demonstrate the ability to apply the concepts of leadership style to yourself and be able to compare your experiences of change with best practice.

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for graduate-level employment requiring the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable circumstances. This includes demonstrating: the learning ability for professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences of a professional nature that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

Presentation:

- Carried out in an appropriate business/academic style.
- Focus only on the tasks set in the assignment.
- Length: no more than 10 minutes (the remaining 5 minutes will be used for questioning).

You should demonstrate appropriate presentation skills such as looking at the audience, clear and logical verbal and written communication, and adhering to timescales.

Essay:

You should demonstrate appropriate written skills – your essay should be structured appropriately and be well written, with no spelling or grammatical errors. UK English should be used. Your personal experiences should be genuine and described in sufficient detail. There should be no use of translation software or AI evident in your work.
