Task 1 – Self Evaluation

BELBIN TEAM ROLE THEORY

Explorer – 19%

Belbin [4] describes the explorer as; generally an extrovert by nature. He or she is cheerful, gregarious. The explorer is also investigative, interested and curious about things. Because explorers like to improvise and communicate with others, they will have little problem presenting ideas to the team and developing new contacts.

After completing the 'Team Roles Test', it was identified that I met the criteria for two roles equally. The first being Explorer, followed by Innovator. I certainly identify with what has been described, as I have always been inquisitive, always asking questions, eager to learn and understand more about any subject.
