Greetings,

Tokyo International University

This letter is intended to show my interest in the Global Teaching Fellow position at the Global Teaching Institute of Tokyo International University. After receiving my BA in Philosophy, I have been an ALT at a public high school in Setagaya under the JET Programme since 2019. Additionally, I have received an MA in English as a Second Language Education, and I am now working on an MA in Philosophy with only my thesis remaining.

Because of my background, I believe I would be a good fit for teaching EAP and academic literacy to international students, especially those interested in the humanities or Western thought. Some of my responsibilities as a JET have included:

- Assisting in teaching English communication, conversation, and logical expression classes.
- Preparing students for Eiken tests.
- Tutoring a bilingual student in Western philosophy in preparation for a Politics, Philosophy, and Economics (PPE) program in the United Kingdom.

Lastly, I have published papers in peer-reviewed journals in language education and philosophy, and I have served as an editor and proofreader for academic journals. Due to this experience, I believe I could provide strong guidance for students in academic writing.

Thank you for your time,
Andrew Nessler
