

Web links – Chapter 4

<http://www.cipd.co.uk/hr-topics/employment-law.aspx> - this is a link to the CIPDs employment law resources which provides a wide range of information regarding legislation, employment rights and up-to-date cases.

<https://www.gov.uk/browse/working> - this is a government website which provides basic details of existing employment legislation

<http://www.acas.org.uk/index.aspx?articleid=4663> – the Acas website provides detail of employees' and employers' rights and responsibilities.

<http://www.ier.org.uk/about-us/institute-employment-rights> - the Institute of Employment Rights is a 'think tank for the labour movement' and a charity. It provides a wide range of views, research and policy ideas which are generally critical of existing government employment policy.

<http://www.bailii.org/> - the British and Irish Legal Information Institute provides free access to British and Irish case law & legislation and European Union case law. This is a searchable database so that you can find a range of reported cases that deal with specific legal issues.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Uaph2yl9Fo8> – this video contains an interesting debate over the Trade Union Bill 2015, hosted by the BBC's Daily Politics programme. The debate features Frances O'Grady the General Secretary of the TUC.