Introduction

Reflection on the education brings the value of understanding on the selected topic. This can be a matter of practice, attention from the part of the student to be attentive in his field of work and this can help him/her to make the necessary steps to follow the reflective portions quite well. This part of the report is all about the reflection of the students understanding of the implementation where the presentation processes draw attention on the retail awareness on sustainable environment, global citizenship, entrepreneurship and leadership and communication participation. This can help more in the improvement in the advantages of the reflective expression of the actual topic. This also helps to make out the drawbacks as well.

About the topic:

The knowledge on the selected topic needed our overall information and the personal skills to make the project work in professional ways. The working experience needed the relevant project research to develop the credible sources well connected to make things together. We have conducted the research in a group so that there can be a bigger research with the evidence of reading, unsupported and non-authoritative findings to be made convincing in every way. The proper sources about the real study on the sustainable environment create environmental changes with the globalisation effect that makes the community participation as well. This enables us to make our project more focused on the proper understanding and improvement in our dealing with the overall presentation. The leadership has made us make the position of deciding the key perspective of the retail sector. We have chosen some of the examples of the sustainable projects and their rates of sustainability. The thing which we have done is the selection of the project and made the decision overtaking the steps for the presentation on the retail demonstration and increase in our awareness for the knowledge of the various factors. This has made us work on our interpersonal statement. We have also done the time management with proper networking. Our project also has the replaceable sources of the environmental sustainability with the crop yielding, pollution with the non-renewable resources. This sustainability has included the water used pesticides, sustainable energies from the sun, wind and water. Our project on the sustainable project has chosen the retails environmental sustainability with the dealing from the corporate social responsibility. We have mentioned this because there is investment in the environmentally sustainable resources on the solar power and the natural processes regarding the sustainability of the resources.

Working collaboration:

Collaborative working experience of the project 'Pathway Project 1' is the presentation on the retail perspectives where the students need to be aware of the employability in the local and global context. Our project guide has made us well aware of the making of the presentation with the keen understanding of the subject we have done in order to get the positive feedback on our knowledge of this particular project. The experience that we have shared among the five of us is with the skills that we bear within. This has helped enough to complete without assignment at the given time frame. The Collaboration our work has made the total operation of doing the project with our required experimentation or researches on the given topic. Being the leader of the assignment, I have segregated the required tasks necessary for the fulfilment of the whole project within my co-mates to make the strategic planning named the working of the components. This can be effective in our demonstration of the group project. The knowledge and the range of information resources have made the favourable selection with the investing millions of dollars in the renewable resources. We can take this as an example to the projects of the energies that we make on the dependability of sustainable energies.

Awareness on the main topic:

Demonstrative awareness on leadership, community, sustainability, global citizenship on employment skills have made us improved with the retail sector to work or to study in presenting the whole work together to make the variations of the task which is required to form the company more energetic with the expanded research on the renewable energies. The skills development processes act on the given requirement of producing the sustainable project on retail. This concerns the environment with the environmental and globalisation issues with global citizen factors. The skills will make the entrepreneurship processes quite participatory to make the project successful (Perry, 2016). The skills that we bear in the understanding and performing of this project needs our leadership management, time skills and the proper networking that helps to make the presentation very lucid in bringing the clear vision to make others understand it very easily.

The key skills that make our project to go through included the leadership and the management of time. The setting up of the working needs the thorough culture of the project among us. The organising and prioritizing the vital points to discover the participation has made us confident on the improvement of skills on the sustainable development.

From this study and researchers that we have made, this can be evident that we have formed within us the awareness of the communication between us. This has helped us to maintain the proper networking for the improvement of our skulls. Sustainability of the resources that are talked about needed a justification with the tools that were used to find the employment skills. We have learnt much of the things from the sources that are used and collected in order to make the study firm. The delegation of tasks creates the knowledge and skills grow with the affirmation of individual information to the topic as well. The suggestions from the team members require the proper segregation of the task as well as the allotment of time. Making plans and thereby, forming the necessary steps to evaluate the retailing of the corporate social responsibility in the context of the awareness among the sustainability and knowledge of the employment skills really does matters on the part of a group work.

Knowledge from the project:

The self-study, a decision of the topic and the researches that operates regarding the planned making of a project needs the experience on the usages of the renewable resources which will speak on the projects and the maintenance of teamwork is the important feature of working in a project as a whole. The work and operations that we have chosen among us have made us individually strong enough to judge and make the project much energized with the mixed experiences. This will improve our working more appropriately. Our teacher has made the assignment allocated among us to draw the picture on the expansion of the framework resources and the awareness that we have among us to make the project a successful study. This is a door that has opened our minds to make the future study well informed of this experience. The findings from our presentation have found that by using water efficiently, the farmers have minimized or reduced the dependability of the harmful pesticides. Therefore, the necessity of the energies from the outer sources required to make the retail sectors well established by their services.

There has been much emphasis on the presentation of our project. We have faced many difficulties in connecting with the assignment while presenting the topic. The project has its discourses which are much understandable, however, the understanding the global citizenship, entrepreneurship and the leadership are the community building aspect that is easy in providing the explanations to the mass. Our future improvement should aim at the provisions to demonstrate each of the factors with different examples that can highlight the discourses of each perspective that are included in our present context. The world is the place where it provides people with the employment, opportunities and influences to the lifestyles. Shops today are more global the developing trends of business and the fashion that plays the vital role in the internet marketing phase (Jones, 2013). This has made the major downfall of the retail businesses in the market. Because more usage of internet has grown to give rise to the online marketing and the reduction in the retail businesses have merged the entire economy in the business market. The improvement in the extra effort is required for the retail shops to make the difference with the online platform to make it work. We have tried making this evident to forecast the retail marketing on the issues relating to the sustainability of the resources and their uses.

Therefore, the provision of the presentation helps to guide our own perspective of getting the work done with the retail business presentation. This will demand the queries of the mass. Therefore, we are ready with the answers as the whole presentation is done by us to meet the project with both ways communication between the group members, mass people and the stronger understanding of the languages will make the professional and personal knowledge on the different attributes to manage the project. Each of our contributions has made it work with enough management in our personal efforts.

Conclusion

The above-mentioned report is the description the retail business and the perspectives of the sustainability of the resources on the environmental aspects, global citizenship and the community participation including the employment skills and leadership efforts. The report is our part of a presentation that has made the retail communications rise with the resources between the communities and then used companies. Our teacher has guided us to form the project work in support of the awareness about the whole topic.
