Academic and Employability Skills

Introduction

- In academic period, every student gathers different academic and theoretical knowledge for getting desired professional life in future time.
- Students try to possess different employability skills like-leadership, self-management, initiative, planning and organizing, problem solving, reliability, teamwork, communication and so on (Lerman 2013).
- As a student, I dreamed to become a social worker for helping different wretched and vulnerable people living in society.

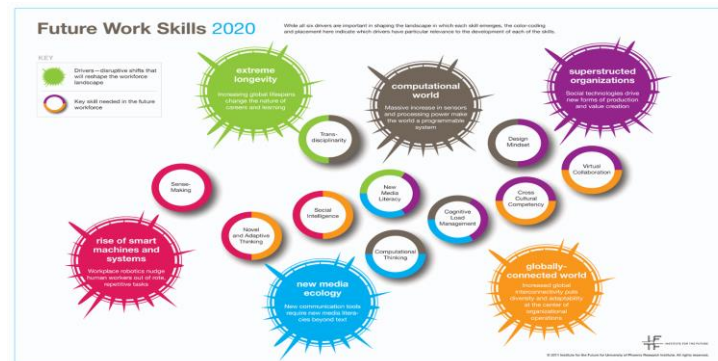

Employability skills for becoming social worker

- I have developed different employability skills like-communication skill, empathy ability, patience quality, active listening skills, critical thinking skills, problem solving skills and so on for becoming social worker in my professional life (Eldabi & Other 2019).
- I improved my communication knowledge and skill by taking training and reading d les and models.

The skills that I already have possessed

- In academic period, I have developed various skills like-technological skills, self-management skills, initiative and enterprise skills, teamwork skill, communication skill and problem solving skill (Chau & Other 2011).
- I developed my IT knowledge by getting training, taking support from expertise and watching YouTube video.

The skills, I need to improve for becoming a social worker

- In academic period, I had different lacking like-poor time management quality, hesitation in complex situation, laziness, poor IT knowledge, poor code of ethics and so on.
- I will try to improve my time management quality by following various time management theories, models and frameworks (Andrews & Russell 2012).

Conclusion

- Each student need to develop different qualities and characteristics like- communication skills, active listening skill, critical thinking quality, problem solving skill, self-management skill and so on for getting desired job in professional life.
