Q1. The content of your answer displays some knowledge of relevant facts, ideas & arguments, but there is quite a bit of detail lacking in terms of what Callicott actually says in his paper. As such, the full potential of the arguments at stake is not sufficiently considered in your answer. Q2. Whilst there is a conscientious attempt to focus on the question, your answer expresses a number of inaccuracies & conceptual confusions. These could be rectified by a closer engagement with the course reading materials.
