I think the reason I like to paint is that it's a kind of therapy to me, it's relaxing, melts all of your stress away. It's mostly Warhammer 40K that I tend to work with, though I do tend to dip in to some more specialist sort of figures. I wish I was a better photographer some times, only so I could capture the figures.

Bad Habit is a sitcom written by Ash Edwards that centers on a group of nuns running an administrative office. Sister Gerty runs the show, though most of the time she tends to be down the bookies or skiving in her office. Her disgruntled staff put up with her for the most part, mostly for their own benefit.

First time sitcom writer Ash had this to say about the show "It's a sitcom at heart of it, my main goal is to make people laugh. I know that sounds a bit redundant when you're talking comedy, but that's what I went in with, if I can make someone laugh at least once while they're watching then I've succeeded."

Ash is still seeking a distributor for Bad Habit, though he aims to shoot a pilot himself over the next few months.

Below is a preview of the pilot episode of Bad Habit, read by the shows writer Ash Edwards himself.

"I thought it'd be a fun little sneak peak, I'm no actor but I've done my best to give each character their own voice, hope you guys enjoy!"
