

My Intended Career

BY ANTOAN DIMITROV

My intended career: Area Manager

Did you decide what to be in the future? What is your dream? Well, I have decided mine, and I am going to talk about that now.

My choice of career

- I am going to tell you about my choice of career, but before I get into that, I will tell you what a career is. A career is a job you got for a long time. For example, Mr. Bailey has been a teacher for a long time, so his career right now is a teacher.
- My choice of career is Project Manager. But most of all, I want to be a Area Manager.

What skills do we need for a Area Manager

We need to finish Business and Management degree for a long time and also can handle the managerial tools very easily.

To have good communication skills, leadership, ability to motivate others, multitasking and ability to work under pressure.

It takes a lot of time and effort to gain all of these qualities and practice with customers to get the right manner and customer service.

SWOT Analysis

Strengths- What do I do better than others? What qualification and/or skills do I have? What specialist knowledge and/or interests do I have? What do others see as my strong points?

Weaknesses- Are there any gaps in my knowledge and experience? What aspects of my work do I find most difficult or frustrating? What factors have limited my progress or held me back?

Opportunities- Which forthcoming changes within my organisation or externally might provide openings? What suitable vacancies are available? Which trends could I take advantage of?

Threats-Which forthcoming changes in my organisation or industry might affect my position? What potential problems do I face? What competition are you up against from others?

PDP

Develop soft skills

Learn how to have effective 1 on 1s

Be more effective listener

Learn to manage your energy and stay positive

Become a regular reader

Become a multiplier

Identify future leaders