

This reflection explores how emotional intelligence can transform uncertainty into effective leadership, positive communication, peer support, and productive teamwork during education and group projects.

