ENGAGEMENT WITH LITERATURE /10

 You have provided the required references. It is important to provide in-text citations in the body of the PPT, to support statements. Remember to include the date accessed on the relevant references. Please review the Harvard Reference Guide.

4

KNOWLEDGE & UNDERSTANDING /25

You have demonstrated some knowledge and understanding of the principles and concepts of restaurant reviewing. More detail, specific examples and academic support/evidence is required to demonstrate enhanced knowledge and understanding. For example, it was mentioned that the food looked nice, the restaurant was welcoming and the portions were average, however, it is important to explain why this was the case, by providing specific examples and comparing to other restaurants to benchmark. It is also important to discuss the quality of the food in more detail, using specific criteria.

COGNITIVE & INTELLECTUAL /25

More analysis and evaluation of the concepts and principles of restaurant reviewing is important to provide to demonstrate enhanced cognitive and intellectual skills. For example, it is important to discuss how quality/value of the food, service, ambiance etc., affect customers and sales/profit by supporting with evidence from research.

10

PRACTICAL APPLICATION /30

For your presentation, it is important to consider reading less and speaking more directly to the audience/camera to enhance engagement and connection with the audience . This will encourage the audience to listen more intently. You spoke clearly and at a steady pace. During presentations, it is important to be present for all of them.

12

 It is important to provide more content on the PPT and include in-text citations to support statements from research. Remember to include a title page with the module details etc. It is important to ensure the images are all relevant and to label them to indicate what they are demonstrating. It is also unclear whether they are stock images or personal images. It can be helpful to include personal images to reflect your personal review, which helps the audience to connect more (if you have done this, it is important to mention this). On slide #5, the menu font is very small and difficult to read. It can be helpful to include one page per slide with larger font, for example, so it is legible.
