The Saltshire Town Plan

Saltshire is a community that has been in decline for several years. Unemployment has boomed since the closure of the local salt mine. A government incentive has been launched to breathe new life into the region.

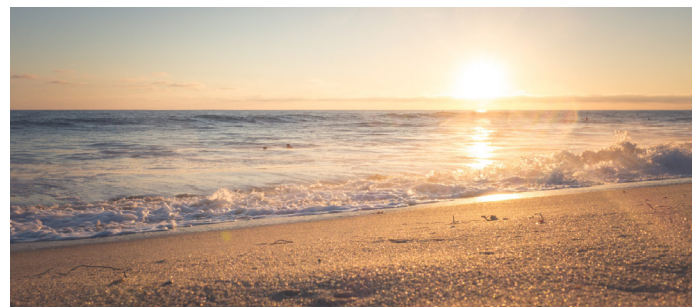

An area of land has been designated as being appropriate for redevelopment. The government has decreed that there should be allocation for homes, industry, a new school and, contentiously, an open prison.

A government plan has been put forward that is universally loathed by the four parties involved in the development of the above, Bensimon Homes, Nestlom, Group Five Securities and the Saltshire Sports Academy. To address this, before development starts the government have given the four groups the opportunity to come to a democratic solution.

Your mission is to negotiate a solution that is deemed acceptable to all parties. You have 30 minutes to conduct an initial negotiation.

General Rules

1. Once the final borders have been agreed parties will not be able to cross one another's land.
2. Every part of the peninsula should be allocated.

Group Five Securities

Group Five is a security company that has won the contract to build an open prison facility. They have committed to maintain a facility with about 100 inmates who are not considered risks to the local community. Inmates may have committed category D crimes that include things such as fraud or deception but can include people who have been convicted of serious crime if assessed as low risk. This entire scheme will not be backed by government if this facility is not adequately built.

- They prefer the land that has access to the “private” beach for inmates to exercise as it is secure, but any green space would be reasonable.
- They need reasonable access to the existing electricity supplies and road network.
- They do not want the marsh land area but accept it may be good for security.
- They suggest a reasonable distance from the school.
