Analyse

It is important not to stop questioning, curiosity has reasons its for survival. (Einstein,A.1955)

- Scrutinize my work, to be certain it is relevant for my study's. (Otto, 2018).
- Investigating plethora resources at length, covering all aspects. (Facione, 2011).
- Inspect fundamental details to further my evidence.(Erstad,2018).
- Approach information from different angles. Think of different points of view.(Wiley online liabry,2018).

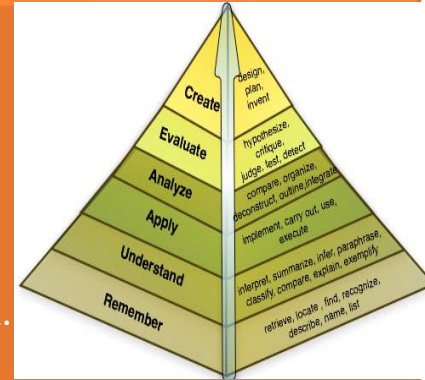

(Liverpool school of Tropical medicine,2020)

Objectivity

Set aside my personal knowledge, begin with an accurate study. (Wozniak,S.2017)

- To stay focused I write questions about certain elements I want to explore. (Cottrell,2019).
- I do not deviate from the credentials of the task. This helps with my focus.(Cottrell,2019).
- Understanding the point that has been made.(Janssen et al,2018).
- Be balanced in my findings, approach all information with a fair mind.(Barton et al,2000).

(The University of British Columbia,2011)

Humility

Incorporating humility, I will be able to identify sufficient credible evidence. (Jones,A.2017).

- Recognise peoples experiences and how this might implicate the outcome. (Fcione,2011).
- Respect peoples views by acknowledging they might be different to my own. (Jones,2017).
- Be balanced do not just assume certain elements are factual. (Janssen et al,2018.)
- Stay aware of my own bias views on certain subjects.(Elder,2007).

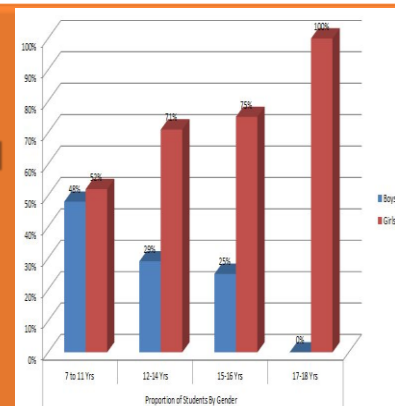

(Igorstevenovic, 2020)

Evaluation

Read whilst not contradicting or invalidating, or trust and assume. Alternatively deliberate and contemplate. (Bacon,F.1597)

- Investigate statistics balancing them against primary information.(Cottrell,2019).
- Be curious, always ask myself questions to broaden my evidence. (Otto, et al 2018).
- Inspect primary and secondary evidence, is it from a reliable source. (Erstad, 2018).
