Harvard: general guidance

 Setting out citations

 What to include in your reference list

Read about referencing sources on the internet and how to reference a list of possible types of internet sources.

The screenshot displays a library website interface. On the left is a sidebar menu with three main categories, each with a minus icon for collapsing:

- Journals
 - Journal articles
 - Prepublication journal articles
 - Systematic reviews
- Digital and Internet
 - About referencing the internet (circled in red)
 - Websites and web pages (circled in red)
 - Digital repositories
 - Learning environments and online support
 - Social media and networks
 - Software
- Media and Art
 - Publications and periodicals
 - Audio and music
 - Films and programmes
 - Physical media

On the right, the main content area features a list of articles with icons:

- An icon of a speech bubble.
- An icon of a person writing, next to the article 'Paraphrasing (Harvard)'.
- An icon of a pair of scissors, next to the article 'Summarising (Harvard)'.

At the bottom of the article list is a dark blue button labeled 'View More Articles'.

Select the type of web page you are referencing, for example a web page with an organisation as author.

There will be an example of an in-text citation and a reference list citation.

You can create your own citation to copy and paste into a Word document.

The screenshot displays a library website interface. On the left, a sidebar contains navigation links: 'What to include in your reference list', 'Elements that you may need to include in your references', 'Sample text and reference list using the Harvard style', and 'Setting out quotations (Harvard)', with a 'View More' link at the bottom. Below this is a 'RECENTLY VIEWED' section with links to 'Journal articles (Harvard) Examples of referencing' and 'Electronic books (ebooks) (Harvard) Examples of'. The main content area features a 'Citation order:' section with a bulleted list: 'Organisation', 'Year that the site was published/last updated (in round brackets)', 'Title of web page (in italics)', and 'Available at: URL (Accessed: date)'. Below this is a 'Not sure what to do?' link. The central focus is a citation generator tool with two red circles. The left circle highlights the 'Example' section, which includes an 'In-text citation' example: 'After identifying symptoms (National Health Service, 2021) ...' and a 'Reference list' example: 'National Health Service (2021) Coronavirus (COVID-19). Available at: <https://www.nhs.uk/conditions/coronavirus-covid-19/> (Accessed: 17 May 2021)'. The right circle highlights the 'You try' section, which contains a text box with the template: 'Organisation (Year that the page was published/last updated) Title of web page. Available at: URL (Accessed: date)'. Below the text box are three buttons: 'Italicise', 'Copy', and 'Email'.
