Mental Disorders and Psychopathology
Debate

Psychopathology

- ii Most psychological disorders are “extreme expressions” of otherwise normal emotions, behaviors, and thoughts. They are more persistent or intense. A matter of degree!!
- iii Mental Disorders are NOT distinct from normal life experiences – they are just more severe or prolonged compared to what is normally experienced.

Introduction

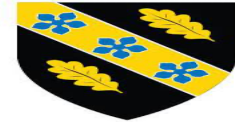

In this module, we were proposed to present a group debate, related to the case study of a lady with autism. First, we will briefly define mental health disorders and autism in ICD-10 and DSM-5.

Then, we will be talking about Charlotte who is a 36-year-old female who has high-function autism spectrum disorder, was diagnosed by her secondary school and has been diagnosed with generalised anxiety disorder. How it will impact her life now and into the future. This will be done within a debate on the positives and negatives. Will be looking into changes within the UK (United Kingdom) mental health legislation and recommendations for Charlotte and others with Autism.
