

Children are encouraged to be motivated to play this is important to promote learning and to educate. (Brock, A alt, 2013) Play is often said to be something children do when they are younger and is something they will eventually grow out of.(Whitehead D,alt 2012) Play and learning are two different learning skills in children's lives and cannot be divided as children are finding out on their own about what objects do when they touch them for example sitting, standing and crawling so play is known as learning and teaching children how to take control of their bodies(Early years matters,2018)that being said unstructured play can happen at any time it can never be planned but is instructed by children and deemed crucial in children's lives. (Herrington,2015, pages 477-483) Finally babies and young children seem eager to learn at an early age they learn from interacting with their parents, grandparents and siblings and the environment they grow up in.(Moyles,2010)

Reference list:

Brock, A (2013) Perspective on play: learning of life, Routledge in Oxon

Early Years Matters (2018) The importance of play available at:
<http://www.earlyyearsmatters.co.uk/eyfs/a-unique-child/play-learning/>

Herrington S (2015) 'Beyond Physical Activity: The Importance of Play and Nature-Based Play Spaces for Children's Health and Development' Current Obesity Reports, 4(4), pp477-488

Moyle J (2010) The Excellence of Play 2nd Ed. Berkshire: Open University Press

Whitehead, D (2012) The importance of play,

URL: <http://www.importanceofplay.eu/IMG/pdf/drdauidwhitebread-theimportanceofplace.pdf>