

MSc Applied Social and Health Psychology

Open Evening

Wednesday 28th February 4pm-6.30pm

Townhill Campus, Swansea

UWTSD's School of Psychology is currently recruiting to its Master's programme on the Swansea Campus for September 2018.

This innovative Master's programme, which will be delivered on our brand new SA1 waterfront campus, will develop higher-level research, evaluation, and professional skills that can be applied to a broad range of specialisms within and beyond Psychology. Specialist modules in the areas of health and social psychology will explore how we can understand real-world issues such as health promotion, environmental behaviour and prejudice & discrimination, with an applied focus of how we can intervene to improve individual, organisational and societal health and social functioning.

The MSc Applied Social and Health Psychology stimulates and challenges you from the outset, engaging you in active participatory lectures which consider some of the most relevant and topical issues pertinent to psychology and society today. Coupled with this, is the dedicated and highly motivated lecturers who are committed to encouraging us to succeed.

Karen, MSc Student

Want to find out more?

To find out more about the course, application process and finance options, come along to our Information Evening at the Townhill Campus, Swansea.

For more information or to register your interest in this event please contact Ceri Phelps on ceri.phelps@uwtsd.ac.uk

Specific programme talks will be given at 4.30pm and 6pm, with the opportunity to meet and chat with staff and students. Refreshments will be available.

<http://uwtsd.ac.uk/msc-applied-social-health-psychology/>