Personal Skills and Insights

Hailing from Northern Ireland, I find myself driven by my North Coast community and my Irish identity. Authenticity is incredibly important to me and this, I believe, comes from the honest and genuine nature of Northern Irish community and countryside.

My ambition as a designer is to continually learn and find a business that shares my values and genuine love for design.

Skills

Observational Sketching... and more experimental techniques using a wide range of mediums, pastel/watercolour/ indian inks

CAD... Intermediate in Solidworks and Keyshot

Adobe Suite... Experience using Indesign, Photoshop, Illustrator

Microsoft Packages... Word, Excel, Powerpoint

Modelling.. using mixed media, proficient in ceramics

Product and recreational Photography

Leadership and Collaboration through Charity relief teams and day to day operations in the hospitality sector

Adaptability demonstrated in my flexible nature throughout the pandemic

Problem Solving reflected in my constant critical responses to briefs throughout my Portfolio

Active Listening in my honest curiosity and where I have a genuine love for people, aiming to nurture those around me

Diplomacy a defining skill working with the general public, learning to be tactful and sensitive

Persuasion shining through my passion, eagerness and commitment to authentic and quality design

Interests

The world of design and creativity is not just a means to a career for me, art and design is my passion as well. However, creativity can be found in more than just the obvious. I have a special love for literature and cooking, taking time to unwind and escape is incredibly important for being open minded.

Outside of the pandemic, exploring and photography take me far afield as well. My own community and culture make up my identity, experiencing others broadens my opinions and my work.
