Les Océans (The Oceans)

Dir: Rémi Forte

France 2018 25 mins

Starring Delphy Murzeau and Lawrence Valin

A victim of a recent stroke, Emma has left home to spend her time convalescing on the French island of Belle-Île-en-Mer. A series of strange events occur which leave Emma inexplicably mute and alone as Khassim, her companion, vanishes.

A few words from Rémi Forte:

What can such an occurrence reveal about oneself and how can we recover? Is one left to struggle alone? These are just some of the questions I imagine this short film is asking its viewers.

Emma's suffering of post-traumatic stress disorder is accentuated with the addition of fantastic elements that weave throughout the film. To expand more on this would spoil the plot of the story. My short film exists between the two worlds of narrative and experimental cinema, and much of the storyline is left to the imagination of the audience to complete. I hope that the viewing of the film itself will be an unforgettable experience.
